New Union Depot Hearing Ordered by State

LOCAL FACILITIES ARE INADEQUATE, DECLARES PERRY

State-Owned Railroad Lessees Ordered To Appear Before State Service Board April 14.

STATION NOW USED BY FOUR RAILROADS

Service Board Order Dovetails With Viaduct Plans, Mayor Will Outline At Big Dinner.

A new Union depot loomed for Atlanta Tuesday when the Georgia public service commission adopted a motion in the form of a rule nisi compelling the lessees of the Western & Atlantic, state-owned road, to appear before it on April 14 and show cause why it should not provide reasonable and adequate depot facilities at the Atlanta terminal.

This was tantamount to serving notice on the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, the lessee, that it must establish the fact that the old Union passenger shed is adapted to the use to which it is now put, or build a new depot on the site of the present structure.

"Depot Is Inadequate."

"The Union depot is approximately 50 years old," Commissioner James A. Perry, who introduced the motion, said Tuesday. "In my opinion, it is absolutely inadequate as a passenger terminal for the state-owned road, and in introducing the resolution, I contemplated construction of an entirely new and modern structure unless it can be shown that the present shed is adequate."

"The public service commission has the power to compel the lessee to build a new depot if a public hearing on the question develops the fact that present facilities are not reasonable. For this reason, I introduced the motion, which was unanimously adopted."

If the commission is convinced the present depot is inadequate, we have the authority to order immediate erection of an adequate station."

Erection of Viaducts.

If the new depot order is issued, its project will dovetail with a movement to definitely get on foot the viaduct project, which Mayor Walter Sims is pushing toward erection of viaducts over the railroad tracks at Pryor street and Central avenue, which would pass by the front and rear of the new Union depot that the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad might build.

In launching this movement, Mayor Sims announced he will be host to a dinner on March 16 to five railroad presidents and more than 50 Atlanta civic leaders, and at this time, open discussion of the viaduct proposal will be held with a view to reaching a cooperative basis for procedure.

While no definite linking of the viaduct and new passenger station movements was evidenced Tuesday, it was regarded as certain that the two would be evolved in conjunction if the new depot is definitely ordered and the two proposed viaducts materialize.

Board Is In Accord.

The fact that the motion for a hearing in the matter of construction of a new depot was adopted unanimously indicated that the public service commission was in accord with Commissioner Perry in the opinion that the present union depot is now thoroughly inadequate, unsightly and insanitary.

"The depot, as the Atlanta terminal of the Western & Atlantic railroad, is leased directly by the state to the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis. The present lease runs for a little more than five years."

The matter of a new union depot was agitated a few years ago, but was not pressed by the public service commission on account of the impoverished condition of the lessee, it is stated.

"The present financial condition of the road, however," Mr. Perry stated Tuesday, "makes it entirely reasonable that the matter should be definitely determined at this time, and the hearing on April 14 will probably go far toward settling it."

Plans for Mayor's Dinner.

Mayor Sims plans for a dinner on March 16 were announced Tuesday, following acceptance of invitations by the railroad managers and from many Atlanta business men. The railroad presidents who have accepted the invitation are: W. R. Cole, Nashville, president of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis; J. H. ...

Advances of $2,750 Charged to Holder In Dawson Report

LOCAL RETAILERS THREATEN RAISE IN PRICE OF MILK

All Money Paid Has Been Refunded With Exception of One Advance of $100, It Is Declared.

Politics Blamed For Appointments

New Ordinance To Force 100 Per Cent Increase, Say Restaurant and Soda Fountain Men.

A 100 per cent increase in the price of milk, as retailed at restaurants, soda fountains, and hotels, was threatened Tuesday by a delegation of restaurant and soda fountain owners, after they had been notified by the sanitary committee of city council that the ordinance abolishing serving of milk from dipper or pumps will be put into effect Sunday.

The delegation appeared before the committee to protest against the ordinance, but when it was explained that the law already had been passed by council and signed by the mayor, the members threatened to increase the price of milk from five to ten cents per glass.

Original Containers Required.

Under the new ordinance, all milk retained must be served to customers in the original containers, with caps stamped with the name of the dairyman and the date on which the milk was bottled.

Members of the delegation explained that the half-pint bottles are the smallest in which milk can be purchased by them, and as a full half-pint is not needed in filling many orders, such as for cereals and mixed milk drinks, much will be wasted, with the inevitable result that the price must be raised to net a reasonable profit.

Dairyman stated that milk is sold by them in half-pint bottles at 60 cents a gallon. Soda fountain owners claimed that by charging only five cents a glass, the profit would be not worth the trouble of finding storage space for the bottles.

The committee, however, voted all relief possible under the ordinance by authorizing use of quart bottles for milk used in mixed drinks, such as chocolate and malted milks.

Two Milk Inspectors Named.

Election of two additional milk inspectors Tuesday rounded out the day's action. John P. Kennedy, city health officer, stated that the list is now sufficiently large to enforce the ordinance rigidly, and that call of his provisions will become effective immediately with the exception of the clause dealing with the dipper and pumps used in retailing milk, which will not be put into effect until March 15.

The time extension was granted to permit all soda fountain and restaurant owners to make necessary changes in equipment.

Other provisions of the ordinance call for grading of milk in four classes, as well as a number of other regulations concerning production and sale of the commodity.

A battle arose on election of the two new inspectors, and while Charles E. Etheridge was named unanimously, three different men received votes for the other position. R. M. Burton was elected when he received three votes, with T. P. Vaughn and G. R. Sparks drawing one each.

Addition of the inspectors to the force was authorized last week when city council voted an appropriation of $175 per month between March 15 and the end of the year.

Also 'Granddaughter' of Grant

Brunswick, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—Miss Mary Lee Madden, who attempted to end her life in a subway station in Philadelphia Saturday, and who claimed to be a granddaughter of General Robert E. Lee, is the same young woman who was in training in a local hospital up to a few weeks ago, it became known here today.

She is likewise the same woman who entered a suicide pact with another young woman at Jesup, near here, four or five months ago, and made, what was then her second attempt at self destruction.

Miss Madden was in training at the local hospital for sometime and created somewhat of a sensation when she left the institution, three weeks ago, with a stylishly dressed young woman, a mother of five days, who made their escape late

The Constitution Back Home

Notwithstanding The Constitution's serious loss from last Sunday's fire, which entirely destroyed the top floor of the building and saturated the entire building and mechanical equipment—with the three great presses in the basement standing three feet deep in water—The Constitution is happy to announce this morning that it is "back home," and that with the exception of the renovation of a few of its linotype machines every department of the paper is in full working order.

This is the second day The Constitution has been printed on its own presses and distributed from its own delivery and mailing rooms—a remarkable feat when the fact is taken into consideration that only three days ago the top floor of the building was enveloped in flames and the destruction of the whole plant seemed inevitable.

Through the prompt and courteous assistance of The Constitution's contemporaries—The Journal and The Georgian-American—the facilities of both organizations were placed at the paper's disposal in the emergency, as the result of which The Constitution was not a minute behind with a single edition, never missed a mail and was able to complete its carrier deliveries in and out of Atlanta on schedule time.

The pages of today's paper are more or less jammed because The Constitution preferred to make the best use possible of its own plant, which it will take a few days longer to have in perfect working order, than to inconvenience its contemporaries more than absolutely necessary at a time of the week when their plants are under heaviest pressure.

The delicate mechanism of The Constitution's large battery of linotypes is such that these machines must undergo most careful renovation, but half of them are now ready for operation, though in a somewhat crippled condition, and pending the completion of work on the other half the paper is still supplementing its linotype battery by the acceptance of the generously tendered offer of its contemporaries to use their machines after the completion of their evening runs.

With this exception The Constitution is back home, and normal once more, all departments running in their usual places and every phase of work from press room up functioning as usual under the home roof.

SINCLAIR UNDERBID ON TEAPOT DOME, DEPOSITION SAYS

President of Texas Company Denies, However, There Was Secrecy About Famous Oil Lease

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 10.—Plunging into a mass of depositions and other routine evidence, the counsel for the Teapot Dome oil lease, broke the Teapot Dome oil lease, granted to the Sinclair interests, has paved the way for the more sensational testimony expected Wednesday.

In a deposition submitted late Tuesday, President Beatty, of the Texas company, said his company had offered a bid on March 31, 1922, for a lease of the reserve which contained an offer of from 12 1/2 to 40 per cent less than Sinclair's bid. Beatty said Secretary Fall informed him that any company given a lease would have to give the government gold claim deeds relinquishing old claims on Teapot Dome. These were given by Sinclair, it was shown.

So far as he knew, there was no secrecy concerning plans to lease the Dome, Beatty said.

"Oil companies that were in a position to handle a lease of this kind knew of the plans," Beatty declared. Frank E. Kistler, Denver oil man, told of his attempt to obtain the Dome lease, in a deposition introduced late in the afternoon.

Caddy's Head, Used as Tee, Is Crushed

Fellow Caddy Misses Golf Ball and Smashes Skull of Playmate.

Pensacola, Fla., March 10.—Johnnie Gates, 15-year-old caddy at the Pensacola Country club, lies in a hospital here tonight in a critical condition as the result of his head being used as a tee this afternoon by Joe Winegrass, another negro caddy.

Play was dull on the course and the sun being warm, Gates was taking a nap. His cap dropped off during his slumbers and Winegrass, coming along lugging golf sticks and balls, said he thought the head would make a fine tee. He placed a golf ball on the caddy's head and after taking a couple of healthy preliminary swings, let drive. He missed the ball, but crushed the skull of Gates.

Doctors operated tonight in the hope of saving the caddy's life.

Warren's Selection Rejected in Senate By One Scant Vote

Absence of Vice President Dawes From Chair Sends Coolidge Nominee To Defeat.

WALSH OF MONTANA IS HERO OF FIGHT

Western Senators Combine With Democrats To Defeat Former Attorney of the Sugar Trust.

BY RAYMOND CLAFFIER.

Washington, March 10.—By his absence from the senate chamber at a critical moment, Vice President Dawes today permitted the senate to reject the nomination of Charles P. Warren to be attorney general of the United States.

Had Dawes been in his chair when the vote came, he could have cast the deciding vote in favor of Warren, and thus he would have saved President Coolidge from the almost unprecedented fate of having a cabinet appointment rejected by a senate presumably controlled by the administration.

The vote on Warren came at the end of a day of bitter debate. The roll call showed a tie 40 to 40. Had Dawes been in the chair, he could have cast the ballot that would have prevented the disaster.

Reed Changes Vote.

Finally, Charles P. Warren, arriving in time to break the tie was abandoned and Reed, of Pennsylvania, changed his vote to the negative, thus giving a majority against Warren. This was done so that he could move reconsideration later, as a motion to reconsider must come from one voting on the prevailing side.

But here the opposition generalship of Walsh came into play. He moved to table Reed's motion, thus forcing a final showdown at once, cutting off debate and all other parliamentary tricks. Dawes arrived, red and breathless, in the midst of this roll call. The republicans recovered their composure. At the end of the roll call, the vote stood 40 to 40, but had not been announced.

The plan was for Dawes to cast the deciding vote, but he was absent. He moved to table Reed's motion, thus forcing a final showdown at once, cutting off debate and all other parliamentary tricks. Dawes arrived, red and breathless, in the midst of this roll call. The republicans recovered their composure. At the end of the roll call, the vote stood 40 to 40, but had not been announced.

Finally, Overman rose slowly. The fight was lost. Overman switched and the tabling motion carried, 41 to 39, and Dawes had no opportunity to retrieve what he had lost by his earlier absence. It was the sharpest and most hair-raising parliamentary battle the senate has seen since the ouster of Denby was up a year ago.

The roll call on confirmation follows:

For confirmation: Republicans: Bingham, Butler, Cameron, Capper, Cummins, Curtis, Dale, Deneen, Dupont, Ernst, Fernald, Fess, Gillett, Goff, Gooding, Hale, Harrell, Jones of Washington.

Rhinoceros Gores Woman, Man to Death

Wife of Latter Escapes As He Is Trampled By Irrate Beast.

London, March 10.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Nairobi, in the Kenya colony of British East Africa, reports that a rhinoceros, a noted Irish explorer from Dublin, and a British captain have been killed by a rhinoceros.

Mrs. Gracia had crossed Africa from the Belgian Congo to Nairobi and was about to climb Mount Kenya when she encountered the rhinoceros. The woman was with a small bore rifle and wounded the animal, which thereupon charged upon and fatally injured her.

The British officer, Captain Atkins, accompanied by his wife, arrived later in a motor car at the scene. He was not aware of Mrs. Gracia's death and they alighted from the car. The rhinoceros then charged upon them. The captain shouted a warning to his wife and tried to blind the animal by throwing his coat over its head. The rhinoceros, however, knocked the captain down and trampled him to death.

Mrs. Atkins made her escape and brought back gunmen who shot and killed the beast.

Donor Says He Will Not Make Further Needed Concessions Unless Organization Directs.

DEMAND FOR AUDIT RENEWED BY U. D. C.

250,000 Memorial Coins Arrive at Federal Reserve Bank—40 Sculptors Being Considered.

Declaring that the Stone Mountain Confederate memorial can never be completed unless he makes further concessions on the mountain's scarp, which he "never expects to do unless directed by the United Daughters of the Confederacy," Samuel H. Venable, one of the donors of the mountain, Tuesday took sharp issue with memorial association leaders.

Another angle of the Gutzon Borglum memorial association controversy during the day was the writing of a second letter by the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., asking for reply to resolutions previously adopted requesting an audit of funds and itemized financial statement of the association. The letter was forwarded to Hollins Randolph, head of the association, and copies were mailed to Eugene Black, J. P. Allen and Robert F. Maddox, executive committee members.

Venable's Position.

Mr. Venable, referring to grants on the mountain side for the memorial panorama, declared the donors "gave the steep side of Stone Mountain to the United Daughters of the Confederacy. They have been entirely eliminated from its executive committee and from its administration. This monument can never be completed unless I make other concessions to the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association, which I never expect to do until directed so to do by the United Daughters of the Confederacy. This property was given to them, and they have a right to participate in its execution. I will follow any suggestions made by them and protest in any movement to eliminate them as they are today."

It is understood that the design of the complete memorial to be carved on the mountain requires considerably more space than was originally granted by Mr. Venable, and two other members of his family, owners of the mountain. His refusal to make further grants is considered as a serious threat to completion of the gigantic undertaking.

The Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., of which Mrs. John A. Perdue is head, Tuesday morning adopted further resolutions requesting an audit and itemized financial statement of the association's funds, similar resolutions having been passed previously.

New Junior High School Building Now Dependent On Council's Generosity

Education Board Has No Funds—All Bids For Unused School Property Are Rejected.

Construction of a new building for the Hoke Smith junior high school this year rests entirely on the generosity of city council, the board of education announcing at today's meeting that it has no funds to start the work.

All bids submitted on unused school property were refused on the grounds that they were "ridiculous," and the board remains without further means of raising the money, as the 1925 budget does not provide any money for new buildings. The sum of $12,000 was offered for the Walker street school; $15,000 for the old girls' high school property on Washington street; $3,000 for the Fraser street school and between $250 and $400 for the Mayer lot on Marietta street.

Will Urge School. W. C. Slate, board member from the Second ward, who has been in the vanguard in the fight for a new building, announced that Mayor Walter A. Sims has offered to call a meeting of the finance committee of council in an effort to find the funds, and that every influence will be brought to bear to demonstrate to council the importance of adding a unit to the school system.

At present, students at the school are quartered in the old Hill Street school and at Commercial High school. The proposed new unit, of 35 rooms, according to the estimate submitted by E. Ten Eyck Brown, consulting architect, would cost approximately $200,000.

The buildings, grounds, and equipment committee was instructed to obtain new bids, and if a reasonable amount can be obtained, it will be used to supplement any councilmanic appropriation.

Negro School Suggested. Dr. R. M. Eubanks stated that he thought it unwise to sell the Walker street school, claiming that it should be turned into a negro school, and that as such, it would be worth $100,000 to the board. He said that according to his understanding, three sessions are being held daily in all of the negro schools.

Mr. Slate opposed use of the Walker street building for a negro school. Dr. Eubanks' motion to sell the property except that building failed to receive a second, and Mr. Slate's motion to readvertise all of the property was defeated.

Oscar Mills, recently elected by council, and who was attending his first regular meeting of the board, stated that "it would be suicide to sell anything now, as it is hard enough even to keep property away." He bitterly opposed sale of any school property unless a fair price could be obtained, charging that in some past instances, the board has virtually given school property away.

Change in Name. After a long argument, the board voted to rescind its former action in naming the new Girls' High school the Bernard W. Mallon Senior High School for Girls, and decided to call it simply the Senior High School for Girls.

The matter was brought up as a result of action of D. M. Therrell in serving notice of reconsideration when the school was named last month. The motion to reconsider was passed by a vote of 6 to 2, while two members who failed to vote on that motion expressed themselves as favoring the motion to rename the school, and it was passed 8 to 2.

Lockers at the Henry W. Grady Senior High School for Boys, purchased from the Federal Steel Figures company, will be accepted, but, in accordance with the terms of the contract, will not be paid for until lockers at the O'Keefe Junior high school have been made satisfactory, it was decided.

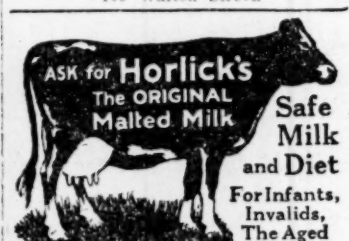

The locker company has promised to make good unsatisfactory lockers.

Money for Driveways.

The board voted $2,450 to build driveways in front of the Girls' High school between Hansell and Killian streets. Of that amount, $1,250 was given by city council. Work on the driveways will be started immediately.

Two members of the board of lady visitors were elected without opposition. Mrs. J. S. Boardman, of the Seventh ward, was nominated by D. M. Therrell, while Oscar Mills, of the Ninth ward, nominated Mrs. L. M. Pierce.

Resignation of H. J. Penn, former board member from the Fifth ward, was accepted, and resolutions adopted expressing regret at his absence. His successor will be elected by city council next Monday.

Mrs. Howard McCutcheon, representing the James L. Key school parent-teacher association, H. H. Smith, principal of the William A. Bass junior high school, appeared before the board to ask that they be refunded money spent for shades for those schools. The matter was referred to the current expenditures committee.

Purchase of diplomas for the four junior high schools also was referred to the current expenditures committee with power to act. The bid of Foote & Davis, offering to print 8,071 diplomas for $1,200, was the only one received.

ADVANCES OF $2,750 CHARGED TO HOLDER

Alleged Advances.

August 16, 1922, $500, refunded by Chairman Holder December 27, 1922.

August 8, 1923, $400, refunded by Chairman Holder August 17, 1923.

August 1, 1923, $1,500, refunded by Chairman Holder in two payments, one of $500 in September, 1923, and the other in November, 1923.

August 14, 1924, $1,500 paid to the account of the "Georgia Highway Magazine." Of this sum, on August 15 two checks for $350 and $150 were advanced to Chairman Holder. This sum of $1,200 was refunded to the "Georgia Highway Magazine" account October 7, 1924.

On October 14, 1924, the $1,500 advance to the magazine account was refunded to the state highway department, it is reported.

December 19, 1924, $100 was advanced to Chairman Holder from the "Georgia highways" account, and to date this sum has not been refunded, according to the auditor's report, it is stated.

Charges in Affidavits.

A recapitulation of these advances together with the record of the dates of their repayment is virtually all that is reported by Auditor Dawson, it has been ascertained.

All other charges made against Chairman Holder are found in affidavits accompanying the reports.

These affidavits having been made by Engineer Neel, Chief Clerk Franks and Treasurer Spahr.

The affidavit of Engineer Neel was made in answer to a list of questions which were said to have been brought to the attention of the governor.

Outstanding features of Engineer Neel's answers to the questions propounded to him have been ascertained to be as follows:

Alleged Political Appointments.

Engineer Neel said that certain employees of the highway department who received their appointment from Chairman Holder were incompetent.

He charged that these employees were named for political reasons. He said that there were Lex Clay, brother of the late Herbert Clay, president of the state senate at the time of the passage of the state highway law; Mr. Lytle, son of Mrs. Alice Louise Lytle, at that time managing editor of the Columbia Sentinel, the newspaper owned by the late Thomas E. Watson; a son of Representative Charles Stewart, Atkinson county, and Mr. Derrick, son of Sheriff Derrick, of the state court of appeals.

It is understood that Mr. Neel charged that these men were employed at direction of Chairman Holder.

It is learned further that Engineer Neel said these men were not qualified for the work they were required to do and that their appointment affected the morale of the highway department organization, creating discord and discontent among the other employees.

He is said to have stated that Mr. Stewart was twice discharged from the department, being reinstated at one time by order of Chairman Holder.

It was learned that Engineer Neel stated that the "Georgia Highway Magazine" was published by the highway department and was edited by Dr. Craig Arnold, representative in the legislature from Lumpkin county and that Dr. Arnold was paid $200 a month for this service.

Highway Bill Amendment.

Engineer Neel and Treasurer Spahr, in their affidavits, declare that they were present on the last night of the 1922 session of the legislature and that the minor highway department bill did not contain an amendment when passed.

This amendment is the one which gives the chairman of the state highway board full authority to control the highway department when the highway board is not in session.

Both highway officials charge that this amendment was not discussed by any member of the legislature in open session, according to their affidavits, it was learned from reliable sources Monday.

Engineer Neel said further that he had found no member of the legislature who had heard this amendment discussed. He referred to a meeting of the highway board held at the capitol December 22, 1924, in which, he said, Chairman Holder had given him a resolution which Chairman Holder said had been adopted during the temporary absence of Spahr.

This resolution gave the chairman authority to make a bi-monthly budget and to increase or decrease this budget as he deemed proper for the best interests of the state highway department. Department officials were required to adhere strictly to this budget.

According to Treasurer Spahr the chairman told him this resolution was introduced by Judge Stanley S. Bennett and was passed during Spahr's absence. Later on seeing Judge Bennett, he was told by that official that he had not introduced the resolution but on the contrary was opposed to parts of it. Later

Chairman Holder told Treasurer Spahr to ignore the resolution and to substitute therefor the original motion directing the chairman to prepare and present a budget. At a meeting held March 6, 1925, the minutes originally prepared were amended to read as originally introduced and the resolution was ignored, it is stated in the Spahr affidavit, according to reliable information obtained Tuesday.

Auto Bought in November.

The large automobile was bought in November, 1924, for use of the chairman, according to the affidavit of Chief Clerk Franks, it was learned. Records show that $1,000 cash was paid on the car, a second-hand car of the same make traded in, and that eight notes for $275 each were made, making a total of $3,200 paid for the car. While the notes were made payable monthly, the entire batch was taken up by the audit appearing in the report of the chairman, Franks stated in his affidavit, it was learned.

The affidavits all three officials of the highway department declare they never saw any itemized account of expenditures made by Chairman Holder out of money advanced to him and which he later repaid. The three officials say the chairman himself told them he had employed four newspaper reporters.

Information Unavailable.

It was learned that Auditor Dawson, in his report, declared that certain specific charges contained in the memoranda furnished him by Governor Clifford Walker in asking for the audit appeared to be beyond the scope of the practice of public accountants, since they are bound by certain professional limitations.

It was stated by the auditor that he had called before him the people whose names were furnished him by the governor when he asked for the investigation, it was learned on reliable authority.

W. T. Anderson, member of the state highway board, who recently resigned and later returned to the board, held a conference Tuesday with Governor Walker, but he issued no statement following the meeting. Stanley S. Bennett, third member of the state highway board, was asked to attend the conference but telegraphed the governor he would be unable to attend.

Plan To Abolish City Purchasing Agent Up Today

Several important matters, including requests for appropriations totaling approximately $15,000, are being considered by the city purchasing agent, will come up for consideration at a meeting of the finance committee of city council at 10 o'clock this morning.

The ordinance regarding the purchasing agent, which was introduced in council some time ago, and which vest present duties of that office in the city comptroller. The measure was referred to the finance committee by council, with request that the money be found.

Money for Draining.

Another long-pending matter—an appropriation of $7,500 for assisting in draining the South river section—will be taken up today. A subcommittee was appointed at the last meeting to consider the request, and a report will be submitted to the finance committee today. Work of draining the unsewered district has been carried on largely by the government, but now it is understood that the government will withdraw unless the city makes some appropriation.

The committee will comb the appropriation sheet in an attempt to find $5,000 to be used in advertising Atlanta at the Southern States exhibit at the Grand Central terminal in New York. The matter was referred to the finance committee by council, with request that the money be found.

$1,200 for Records.

Approximately $1,200 is needed to provide for keeping of records in the water clinic at Grady hospital, it is stated, and a delegation from the hospital is expected to attend the meeting.

The matter of additional employees in the city health department, to provide means of keeping new records made necessary by the recently adopted milk ordinance, also will be considered.

SHERIFF IS ROBBED IN HOTEL AT MIAMI

Miami, Fla., March 10.—Frank Richards, sheriff of Glades county, was robbed of $95, a gold watch and two wallets containing important legal papers, while asleep in a downtown hotel early this morning, Sheriff Richards, whose home is in Moorehaven, left the money, watch and wallets in his clothing which hung in a closet across the room from the door.

The door was left ajar and the thief entered while the sheriff was asleep, tipped across the room and took the valuables.

Sheriff Richards is in Miami on an official trip, and intended to use the stolen papers in a conference today.

Keep on the Job Like Constitution, Children Advised

"Keep on the job—do as The Constitution did and allow no disaster, however severe, to mar your record of performance," was the advice of Miss Mamie L. Pitts, principal of the State street school, to her 452 young pupils Monday morning, when she addressed them regarding the school's splendid attendance record during the past four weeks.

"Sunday morning," said Miss Pitts, "The Constitution suffered a disastrous fire which completely incapacitated its plant but this reverse acted only as a tonic to that great institution which for more than 60 years has never missed a day's circulation and this morning when I went to my door with little hope of finding The Constitution, but much to my surprise the paper was there—just as large and just as interesting as ever."

"This to me was a great lesson in promptness," she continued, "and I want to pass it on to you children—follow the lead of The Constitution and we will keep up our attendance record just as that great newspaper established its right to be called an emblem of promptness by its accomplishment Sunday night under the most adverse of circumstances."

State Street school has held the attendance record for the entire Atlanta system for four weeks.

Fowler and his wife were sleeping at the time.

250,000 COINS RECEIVED HERE

A quarter of a million bright new, shiny half dollars, commemorating the struggle of the southern states in the civil war, Tuesday lay in neat piles in the vault of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank awaiting distribution to aid in financing the Confederate memorial on Stone Mountain.

Tuesday at noon officials of the Stone Mountain Memorial association and officials of the Federal Reserve bank met in the fortifications of the vault for the purpose of inspecting the coins and formally launching the campaign which is to distribute them over the entire nation.

Coins Reach Atlanta.

The bags of half dollars, which arrived in Atlanta Monday, are only a part of the five million which have been coined at the Philadelphia mint and which association officials state are being distributed to Federal Reserve branches in all parts of the country. The balance of the coins which are being shipped to branches will be distributed to individuals through banking institutions of cities and towns throughout the country.

To the casual observer, the sacks of coins in the vaults of the bank building might be so many sacks of flour or potatoes, but when the same observer lifts one of the official-looking sacks he finds that its weight is much greater than many times the bulk of any commonplace article on the grocery shelf.

Lee and Jackson's Figures.

Crowning one side of the coin is the equestrian figures of Lee and Jackson and around the top rim are the words, "In God We Trust." At the bottom is the inscription, "Stone Mountain, 1925." On the reverse side of the coin is the figure of an eagle with wings spread ready to alight on the top of Stone Mountain, and the upper rim bears the words, "United States of America," while the lower edge is inscribed with the national motto, "E Pluribus Unum."

An additional inscription bearing the words, "Memorial to the Soldiers of the South," is found on the reverse side, while across the bottom of the coin are the words, "Liberty" and "Half Dollar."

It is the plan to sell each of the memorial coins at the price of one dollar, half of which will go to the financing of the mammoth memorial on Stone Mountain.

Atlanta banks have established a credit whereby $50,000 of the coins will be distributed in this section.

In the rooms above the store, Glenn Fowler, who was a bodyguard for the late S. Glenn Young, was not at home.

KIWANIS CLUB ADOPTS 85 ORPHANS AT LUNCH

Eighty-five little boys and girls hearts were made bright Tuesday by members of the Atlanta Kiwanis club, at its regular weekly meeting at noon at the Ansley hotel, when the membership of the organization voted to adopt the inmates of the Home for the Friendless. Each child adopted will have the love and care of two Kiwanis members, according to the plan.

At the Home for the Friendless there are 85 little boys and girls that have not had the privilege of enjoying a home and the love of either a mother or father—no one to whom they can go and tell their sorrows and woes, but now faces are filled with smiles and the eyes of the children are happy because they will enjoy the love of home, and other things that make children happy.

Calloway Heads Move.
Kiwanis has made this possible by the movement inaugurated Tuesday by the Home for the Friendless committee, of which Bob Calloway is chairman. He was in charge of the program at the meeting, which was called by practically all members present, the best of the year.

Milton W. Bell, chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve bank, made a brief address in which he asked the cooperation of the Kiwanis club in the southern exposition movement, being fostered by the junior chamber of commerce, in aiding Georgia to have a representative exhibit.

Back Southern Exposition.
The club, following his address, passed resolutions endorsing the act of Governor Walker in appointing a committee in the state to provide for Georgia's proper representation at this exposition, and stating that the people of Georgia should wholeheartedly go into the movement to the end that the state may have the recognition that she deserves among the public at large.

A number of songs and recitations were rendered by some of the children who were the honor guests at the luncheon. Among the features of the children's entertainment was an exhibition of first and second prizes of the home and songs. Following the program the children were presented with gifts and candy.

The close of the luncheon the members of the club drew little dolls from a large statue stork, on which the other end of the string on which the dolls were tied was the name of the child which they were to care for.

The property, fronting 33 feet on Peachtree and 100 feet deep, was purchased several years ago by Mr. Willis and released at a handsome profit, it was said.

'Luke,' Feline Mascot, Found Again After Thrilling Fire

"Luke," Constitution photographers' mascot, shown 'safe in the arms' of pretty Miss Frances Porter, after a harrowing experience in The Constitution building fire Sunday morning.

"Wuxtra, wuxtra, wuxtra" . . . that he had returned to perish with his beloved cameras, plates and other photographic paraphernalia—property of his masters—which he had learned to cherish since kittenhood.

Late Sunday night, however, several hours after the fire and when it was safe to ascend to the sixth floor, Miss Frances Porter, with a gray-sopped biscuit in one hand and a choice piece of round steak in the other—began the search for "Luke." Soon he was found, and an employee who sought to pick him up, was dissuaded by a firm slap of "Luke's" well-known right. Miss Porter then called and "Luke" came forward, almost jumped into her arms and ravenously devoured the food.

For the time being, Miss Porter and "Luke" are domiciled on the fourth floor—in the editorial department—awaiting repairs on the sixth floor. In the meantime, the big cat, recognized heavyweight champion rat exterminator for this ward, is busily engaged in impromptu battles with new combats in rodent circles on the fourth floor.

New Terrora Power Plant Is Placed in Commission

Another important stage in the development program of the Georgia Railway and Power company reached a successful conclusion Tuesday when the first unit of the Terrora development, the power plant of which is located at the head of Lake Tallulah, was placed in operation, this unit adding 15,000 horse power to the system.

The plant when fully completed, will include two units of 15,000 horse power each or a total capacity of 30,000 horse power.

The new power plant was put into commission without ceremony by turning the waters of Lake Rabun into the great tunnel and penstock leading to the waterwheel. Everything had been arranged in advance, the machinery functioned properly and the additional load of hydro-electric power was transformed to 110,000 volts and switched to the high-tension transmission system which extends all over North Georgia.

Marks Fifth Step.

The formal opening of the Terrora plant marks the fifth step in the development plans of the company and follows in succession the completion of the Tugalo development at the beginning of 1924. The work of developing the hydro-electric resources of North Georgia was actively started in 1912, when the Tallulah Falls plant was started. Then followed at regular stages the construction of Marble dam at Lake Rabun, the Burton dam at the head of the system and then the Tugalo dam and power plant and now the Terrora tunnel and generating station.

Along with the completion of the new Terrora plant, the Georgia Railway and Power company this year is completing construction of the Yonah dam and power house four miles below the Tugalo development on the Tugalo river. This dam is well under way now and plans call for its completion by the end of 1925.

The Terrora development consists of a great tunnel a mile long, conducting the water from Lake Rabun to the new power plant. The tunnel was cut through the solid stone of the mountain, and cuts off approximately six miles of the Tallulah river. It gives the new plant a gross head of 134.6 feet, 90 feet of which is represented by the Marble dam.

The tunnel is 14 feet high and 13 feet in diameter to the surge tank from which penstocks nine feet in diameter and approximately 875 feet in length conduct the water to the turbines in the power house. The surge tank is of concrete construction 20x30 feet and 95 feet deep.

Imposing Structure.

Set in the solid rock at the head of Lake Tallulah, the power house itself forms an imposing structure. From the bottom of the foundation to its top it measures 124 feet, about as high as an eight-story building in the city. The building is 128.4 feet long by 58.4 feet wide. The structure is built of reinforced concrete, while the superstructure is of brick and steel construction.

Two waterwheels to be installed on the ground floor will be of 15,000 horsepower each, while the generators will have a capacity of 20,000 kilowatts. Transformers will be located on the outside of the building.

In addition to the Terrora project, the company's building program includes the Yonah dam and power plant and the Nacoochee development, both under construction. The Yonah dam will be 75 feet in height and about 800 feet long, with a power house equipped with waterwheels of 37,500 horse power capacity and generators of 25,000 kilowatts capacity. The Nacoochee development, located just below Burton on the Tallulah river, will consist of a dam 60 feet high and power house with waterwheel capacity of 7,500 horse power and a generating capacity of 5,000 kilowatts.

The last step of the building plan will be construction of a power house at Burton dam, with a waterwheel capacity of 9,000 horse power and generating capacity of 6,000 kilowatts.

have a tight cellar—use concrete

A house is as healthful as its cellar. Many diseases have been traced to bad cellars—to the water or dampness that seeps into them.

But the concrete cellar keeps the house dry, warm and sanitary. If you store things in the cellar, it protects them against mold or rust.

Concrete has substance. Huge constructions as the Panama Canal, the Gandy Bridge and the Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals are proofs of its strength and its dependability of Atlas.

Concrete has form and color. One need only look at the beautiful arched colonnade at Nashville, with its classic columns and intricate design, to realize the versatility and adaptability of Atlas and the beauty of color it makes possible.

The architect, contractor and home-builder can now make any of their plans materialize through Atlas Portland Cement. The complete architectural medium, for with it they can obtain beauty, permanence and economy.

The Atlas Mill at Leeds, Ala., and the sales office in the B. O. W. Mart Building at 2004 First Ave., Birmingham, Ala., make possible a ready supply of Atlas anywhere throughout the South.

WOMAN IS HELD UP AND GROCERY ROBBED

Two unidentified negroes Tuesday night entered the grocery store owned by Mrs. E. Cohen, at the corner of Woodward avenue and Martin street, and held up the proprietor and her fifteen-year-old son. The store, which had been closed for some time, was searched for money, obtaining less than $2 for their trouble. Ordering Mrs. Cohen to move toward the front of the store, which had been locked by the bandits upon entering, they made their escape out the rear door.

Police were summoned but no trace of the bandits could be found. The proprietor described the bandits as "large, tall, mean-looking negroes." Call Officers Crenshaw and Lee investigated.

Klan Circus Proceeds To Improve Hospital At Old Soldiers' Home

Proposals made to Atlanta chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, to give to the chapter the proceeds of the Klan circus to be held in Atlanta the week of April 12 to 18 for use in making improvements in the hospital at the Confederate Soldiers' home were accepted Tuesday.

An investigation of the hospital conditions at the home, made by a legislative committee, showed that the hospital needed many improvements and the John B. Gordon Klan, No. 91, conceived the idea of giving the circus in April to raise funds for this purpose.

The offer was made to the Atlanta chapter by General Nathan Bedford Forrest, grand dragon of the Klan in Georgia. In a letter to Mrs. John A. Perdue, chairman. In this letter General Forrest said: "The charity committee of the John B. Gordon Klan, No. 91, Klamath J. O. Wood, chairman, had under investigation conditions existing at the Confederate Soldiers' home. These conditions exist largely because of lack of funds. Acting on this report, the Klan, No. 91, set about to stage a mammoth circus, the proceeds of which are to be used for the purpose of raising money with which to remedy, as far as money can remedy, the present deplorable conditions existing in the home, particularly in the hospital."

Therefore, having made all arrangements for the circus and having promised to the poor where it is agreed it is desired by the members of John B. Gordon Klan, No. 91, that such sums as may be realized from the proceeds of the circus be administered by the committee directly concerned. They have requested me, as grand dragon of the Klan in Georgia, to tender the Atlanta chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy the proceeds of the circus, without any stipulations whatever except that the fund be used to better conditions of the soldiers' home."

The offer was accepted by Mrs. Perdue following a meeting of the executive committee held Tuesday.

SANITARY DEPARTMENT TRANSFERS ARE VOTED

While the expected sanitary department shake-up failed to materialize at Tuesday's meeting of the sanitary committee of city council, several transfers in the ranks of the department were voted. However, they were in no manner affected by the audit of the department's books now being made, members of the committee stated, but were occasioned only because of regular vacancies and requests of the men involved.

The audit, which, according to reports, will show that patrols were padded to the extent of approximately $1,500 in 1924, was not discussed at the meeting, and members of the committee may be blamed for the controversy, which has halted work on the sanitary department.

The address followed an afternoon at the Fine Arts club where Mr. Kennedy presented his "The Chastening" to a big audience.

"The eyes of the world are on Atlanta," he said. "I know Borglum and love him. Let the committee and Mr. Borglum get together, confess their sins to each other and be forgiven. Then let us start again as brothers in the great work."

Boy Barely Escapes Death When Bicycle And Auto Collide

Ten-year-old Marion Reese, 31 Rosser street, narrowly escaped being killed about 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon on Oak street, when the bicycle on which he was riding collided with an automobile driven by Homer Phing of East Point. The boy was carried to his home and the family physician summoned.

Upon examination it was found that he had suffered a strained back and a badly bruised left shoulder.

According to statements from eye-witnesses of the collision, the boy was riding on the sidewalk and turned suddenly into the street, colliding with the car. Mrs. W. B. Reese, the boy's mother, asked that no case be made against Phing, stating that the accident was unavoidable.

Call Officers J. G. Bowman and C. E. Hale investigated the case.

The January figures showed a gain of nearly $50,000 over December when the collections totaled $109,826.12.

Two-thirds of the income from this source goes into the fund for building state roads and the remainder is returned to the counties in equal shares.

WOMAN ALARMED BY STUDENT YELLS SENDS FOR POLICE

Call Officers Goode and Bullard rushed to the scene and found that 24 candidates were being initiated into a social fraternity. The authorities were invited in to witness the remaining part of the initiation. The yells were being given by the initiates and their frat mates-to-be.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO HELP REBUILD "OLD IRONSIDES"

Washington, March 10.—Secretary Wilbur today placed the task of reconstructing the historic frigate Constitution in the hands of Rear Admiral De Steinguer, at the Boston navy yard, and at the same time suggested that contributions on the basis of 21-2 cents each on behalf of the school children of the country would rebuild the vessel.

Congress has authorized the restoration of the Constitution, and at the same time authorized the acceptance of private donations for that purpose. The first donation, of $1, came today from Daniel Jennings, of Boston, who signed himself a "boy civil war veteran, navy."

Playwright Urges 'Confession' of Sins In Memorial Fight

Charles Rann Kennedy, author of "The Chastening," "The Servant in the House," and other widely known plays, Tuesday night suggested that the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental association leaders and Gutzon Borglum get together, "confess their sins to each other and start again the greatest work this world and posterity will ever know."

Mr. Kennedy, in an address at the Atlanta Woman's club before the Georgia Playmakers, urged reconciliation and expressed the belief that "both sides may be blamed" for the controversy, which has halted work on the gigantic panorama.

The address followed an afternoon at the Fine Arts club where Mr. Kennedy presented his "The Chastening" to a big audience.

"The eyes of the world are on Atlanta," he said. "I know Borglum and love him. Let the committee and Mr. Borglum get together, confess their sins to each other and be forgiven. Then let us start again as brothers in the great work."

Last Week of Revival At Baptist Tabernacle Drawing Large Crowds

The third and final week of the meetings at the Baptist Tabernacle, conducted by H. L. Stephens, assisted by Henry Bachmeyer, chorus director and soloist, is drawing large congregations. Reservations for many delegations have been made.

A delegation from the Central Baptist church was in attendance Tuesday night.

At night Mr. Stephens spoke on qualifications of the Christian life. "The qualifications of a Christian," he said, "are four-fold—first, Christ said 'Ye are the light of the world.' Then 'Ye are the salt of the earth.' Did you ever taste a Christian? Many so-called children of God are tasteless and bitter in their lives and testimony. Again, the world may not read God's Word, but it is reading you, Christian. Also, 'Ye are my witnesses.' How are you witnessing for the Lord Jesus Christ? With these four things accompanying our salvation, which are the fruit of the spirit-filled life, you will live each day a life of victory and power."

Charles D. Tillman, Atlanta's evangelist-singer, rendered a solo.

WELCOME

RETAIL CREDIT MEN!

HERE'S WHAT WE THINK OF YOU:

YOU occupy a position of responsibility, and upon your shoulders rests very largely the success or failure of the firm with which you are connected. You are, and very properly should be, considered one of the most important members of any firm.

YOU are the stone which acts as the foundation upon which your firm stands; the keystone in the organization, and the pillar upon which your general manager and his board of directors lean; the helmsman upon whom he depends to direct his commercial ship safely into port.

YOU, to the unscrupulous and "Bad-Debt" customer, and unfortunately to some of the ambitious but unthinking salesmen of the firm, will look like an orgy, an imp from the other world or a composite of all that is seen in a bad dream or nightmare. You are the very embodiment of all that is mean and rotten.

TO US YOU look GOOD. You look just like what you are—a real first-class representative of a real first-class firm; a man who has been selected for your superior judgment and talent to fill a most responsible position in the world of commerce, and as such we are proud of you.

122D REGIMENT IS PREPARED FOR INSPECTORS' ANNUAL VISIT

Final preparations for annual inspection of national guard units in the state were completed Monday night by officers of the 122d Infantry, "Atlanta's Own" regiment. Regular army inspectors already have arrived in the city and will take up the organizations of the regiment, one by one, each night during the week.

No fears are entertained that inspectors will find the regiment lacking in any particular, according to high officers who have drilled the men for the past year. The regiment, during its first encampment last summer drew highest praise of regulars attached for the training. Colonel J. M. Kimbrough Jr., and Captain R. B. Ennis, of the regular army inspectors for the guard in Georgia, appeared pleased Monday night on the eve of the annual visit of inspectors.

ANOTHER ATLANTA MAN NOW INDORSES KARNAK

"I Surely Owe a Lot of Thanks To This Great Medicine," Declares Patrolman Wm. A. Chewing.

IS BRIMFUL OF NEW LIFE AND ENERGY

Had Been Feeling Weak, Run-Down and All Out of Sorts For Eight Long Months.

Now comes another well-known Atlanta police officer to testify to the remarkable results he has received from Karnak, the sensational new medicine that has set the town talking since put on sale last week at Jacobs' Pharmacy.

This time it is Patrolman William A. Chewing, for 21 years a popular member of the Atlanta police force and living at 80 Bern street. Mr. Chewing's case is interesting indeed, because while he was not sick in bed, his condition was that few could so many hundreds of us suffer. His digestion was bad and he was just out of sorts generally and felt tired and worn out all the time.

"I haven't been sick exactly, but for the past eight months I have suffered a great deal with my stomach. It was always sore and I didn't have an appetite enough to enjoy my meals. I would belch gas for hours after eating and frequently I was very nauseated. I was almost afraid to eat because I knew I would suffer after wards. I was constipated, too, and didn't have any life or energy. I simply felt all let down."

An old friend of mine told me about Karnak about a month ago and said Jacobs' had a few bottles and I might be able to get some, so I went right up to the store and they let me have three bottles.

"Well, sir, that was the beginning of a better day for me. This Karnak acted like it was made especially for my case. It went right straight to the spot and I began to feel better right away. Now, I just feel fine. My appetite is good. I enjoy every thing I eat and I don't suffer a minute afterward. I sleep fine at night, and get up in the morning rested and brimful of new life and energy."

"I can stand the longest watch these days without ever feeling it and it just seems to me I get better and stronger every day."

"Yes, sir, Karnak certainly is a great medicine and I wish everybody knew what it has done for me. I have taken a lot of medicine in my time but I never saw anything that would overcome indigestion and build a man up like Karnak."

Results Guaranteed. Remember Karnak is sold in Atlanta exclusively by Jacobs' Pharmacy; in Marietta by Hodges Drug Co.; in Decatur by Elkin Drug Co.; in East Point by Christian's Pharmacy; in all the leading drug stores in every town, with the guarantee that if the first two bottles do not benefit you, your money will be returned.

Karnak can be obtained at any of the twelve Jacobs' stores and a special Karnak representative is meeting the public at the main store, 6 and 8 Marietta street—(adv.)

Hundreds Join Fight To Save Mrs. Ida Hughes

Telegrams, long distance messages and letters Tuesday night poured into the office of Charles F. Wells and H. A. Allen, attorneys for Mrs. Ida Hughes, who for the second time is under sentence of death on the gallows as the result of the murder of her mother-in-law, Mrs. M. C. Hughes. The messages offered all assistance possible in the fight to save her life.

Many Atlanta women called to offer their help.

Mr. Wells and Mr. Allen this morning are expected to complete preparation of the petition for clemency to be submitted to the Georgia prison commission. It was first announced it would be ready to be filed by 9 o'clock, but new angles developed and forced delays. It probably will be ready to go to the hands of the commission by this afternoon. After it is filed, a date for the hearing will be set.

Plea Based on Evidence. "Our petition will contain nothing not supported by evidence presented at the trial of the case," Mr. Wells stated. "We are not going to enter a plea of insanity. Our petition will be based on the evidence and the statements of Mrs. Hughes herself at the time of the hearing."

"Hundreds of persons from many parts of the south have volunteered their assistance in an effort to have the death sentence commuted and our office is preparing several petitions at the request of prominent church women, who have stated they wish to circulate them. They are signed by thousands of people."

Mr. Wells would not say whether court officials who participated in trial of the case have been asked to sign the petition asking for clemency. Discussing the grounds on which he would base his petition, he stated it would contain at least two counts.

"One of them will be that indignity against indignity was heaped on Mrs. Hughes," Mr. Wells said. "The mother-in-law went to her house with policemen armed with a search warrant, and she herself attempted to conduct the search for goods she alleges Mrs. Hughes took from her."

"Our client was driven to the point of desperation, and at the time, we believe, did not realize she was killing."

Last Woman to Hang. "Mrs. Hughes is the last white woman who will face a sentence of death on the gallows in this state to a recent act of the Georgia legislature, she will be the last one—white or black—who ever can be executed in this manner. We are going to ask clemency on the ground that she is a woman. We believe this will have great weight."

Mrs. Hughes was held in Fulton county jail, S. J. Scarborough, who, officers state, has made a complete record in the state of Georgia as the actual slayer of the school superintendent, is confined in the Clarke county jail in Athens, Ga.

Robert A. Garland, Atlanta attorney, has been retained to represent Scarborough, it was stated Tuesday. No hint has been given as to the nature of the defense that Scarborough will make.

McClellan is expecting the arrival of his mother and an aunt from New York to aid in the fight for his freedom.

Professor Wright was found just off a main road, near Eatonton, Ga., in a dying condition. His skull had been crushed and he died in an Eatonton hospital without regaining consciousness.

McClellan, Coggeshall and Scarborough were arrested near Danielsville. A bunch of keys which were identified as belonging to the professor was found on McClellan.

BIDS MADE FOR LEASE OF ARMY SUPPLY BASE. Washington, March 10.—Bids for the leasing of the army supply base at Norfolk, Va., were made public today by the shipping board.

A bid submitted by the Norfolk Warehouse corporation for the property offered guaranteed a flat rental of $40,000 payable quarterly in advance. The bid contemplated the formation of a $100,000 corporation for operation of the terminal.

The bid of the Atlantic Tidewater Terminals of Philadelphia, offered the shipping board 66 2-3 per cent of the annual revenue derived from storage, wharfage, dockage, water and light and also contemplated formation of a special corporation for operation of the property.

The city of Norfolk's proposal provides that the base would be operated by the city on the same basis as is now in effect, the shipping board to receive a varying percentage of the various classes of revenue. The highest arrangement now brings the shipping board approximately $60,000 a year.

The Norfolk army supply base is located on the eastern shore of Hampton Roads, five miles from Norfolk and was constructed by the army in 1918 and 1919. It consists of two covered piers and eight warehouses containing approximately 2,000,000 square feet each. There is about four or five miles of track and about 12 miles of concrete and macadam highways. The base also contains quarters for guards and storehouses.

TWIGGS COUNTY WILL ORGANIZE LEGION POST. Jeffersonville, Ga., March 10.—(Special)—R. E. White, editor of "The Middle Georgian," who has been in communication with the twelfth district executive committee of the American Legion, Guy O. Stone, of Glenwood, Ga., regarding the organization of a post here, is in receipt of a letter from Stone stating that an organizer will be in Twiggs county in the near future in the interest of the Legion post.

There are 30 or more service men in this county and The Middle Georgian is doing its duty in lining up the ex-soldiers and encouraging them to organize a post here.

The minimum required for a post is 15, but it is sure that at least 25 will be enrolled here.

FARMERS OF THOMAS PLANTING TOBACCO. Thomasville, Ga., March 10.—(Special)—The tobacco plantings in Thomas county are said by experts to be in fine condition and showing up splendidly. The growers are preparing to begin transplanting, in fact some have already started. It is expected that the crop in the county will be a good one, as conditions have been very favorable, the rains early in the season never having been heavy enough here to damage it at all.

With many of the farmers, this is their first experience with tobacco growing, but they have had a good deal of expert advice in regard to handling the crop and as they have been following it closely, they will no doubt make a success of their venture.

MAN SHOT 7 TIMES THEN SET ON FIRE $4.10 Deposited In Safe Years Ago Found by Jentzen

Cartersville, Ga., March 10.—(Special)—John Jentzen, who was in connection with the death early today at a physicians office, of George Carlos, was this afternoon removed to the Rome jail, as on account of the condition of the Bartow jail, all felony prisoners are confined at Rome. Up until the time he left Cartersville, he stoutly denied having shot Carlos.

Carlos, a Greek, who operated a restaurant in Gadsden, Ala., was found last night beside the Rome division of the Dixie highway between Cass Station and Kingston, having been shot seven times with a pistol, and then set on fire with gasoline, according to his statement to officers.

He was found by J. B. Crawford, chief of Cartersville police, who was passing and heard the cries of a man near the roadside. He extinguished the flames and brought Carlos to Cartersville, where he died about 5 o'clock this morning.

According to the statement of the dying man, he and Carona, an Italian, who operates a shoe repairing business in Cartersville, were coming to Cartersville in car from Gadsden, and as they reached a lonely spot on the road, Carona said to him, "You have been intimate with my wife, and immediately shot him seven times, examination disclosed."

Carlos named Carona as his assailant, and when officers went to his home here, they arrested Carona, and found a bloodstained automobile and an empty pistol in one of the car door pockets. Officers also found near the scene of the attack a box of shoe polish, which Carona makes for sale.

Carlos leaves a wife and two children. He was 45 years old. The two families have known each other several years, it is said.

WRIGHT CASE DEFENSE IS SILENT ON PLANS

Attorney William Schley Howard, who has been retained by James I. Coggeshall, of Clayton, Ill., father of Ted Coggeshall, one of three youths accused of the robbery and murder of professor W. C. Wright, superintendent of the Putnam county schools, Tuesday night stated that he did not care to make any comment on the case at the present time.

Coggeshall and F. W. McClellan, whose home was given as Brookton, N. Y., are being held in Fulton county jail. S. J. Scarborough, who, officers state, has made a complete record in the state of Georgia as the actual slayer of the school superintendent, is confined in the Clarke county jail in Athens, Ga.

Robert A. Garland, Atlanta attorney, has been retained to represent Scarborough, it was stated Tuesday. No hint has been given as to the nature of the defense that Scarborough will make.

DEANS' WILL HEARING IS SET FOR THURSDAY

Hearing in the triangular battle for the estate of the late Robert Deans, wealthy Atlanta broker, who left the bulk of his large estate to blood relatives and flourish was brought to bear on Robert Deans in the making of the will.

The family does not contest Miss Lawrence's right to her part of the property under the will, and she says she will not fight her claim if she ever did anything to make the last days of his father happier.

Judge George L. Bell, of Fulton superior court, will preside at the hearing.

Two dollar bills, two musty silver dollars, and two nickels, with no clue as to their former ownership, were discovered Monday by John Jentzen, chief of the sanitary department, when he resurrected the safe for use in his office. The money was in a plain manila envelope.

When Mr. Jentzen reported the matter to the sanitary committee Tuesday, the question of its disposition was considered in full, and after a lengthy and weighty discussion it finally was voted to turn the fund over to the city.

The safe, according to the sanitary chief, has occupied its place in the corridor of city hall for more than 20 years, and until Monday, had not been opened during the entire period. It was only when he found use for an additional vault, and after much hunting in dusty and mouldy unused drawers, found a key which would unlock the old-fashioned safe, that it finally gave up its treasure.

MAJOR J. K. WILSON TO ADDRESS WINTER PLATTSBURG GROUP. Major J. K. Wilson, of the quartermaster's department, Officers' Reserve corps, will be principal speaker at 8 o'clock Thursday night at the tenth meeting of the Atlanta Winter Plattsburg group, to be held in the chamber building. He will speak on "Problems Confronting the Army and Division Quartermasters in Time of War."

"The Duties of the Corps Quartermaster in a Time of War," will be discussed by First Lieutenant Henry Naab, also of the Quartermaster department, O. R. C.

Charged with membership in a theft syndicate, five negro women, all members of the same family, Tuesday were indicted on several separate counts of burglary by the Fulton county grand jury.

Officers who made the arrests charged them with the largest and most valuable collection of stolen goods in the possession of the defendants ever taken in a raid here on negroes.

Those indicted are Pearl Booth, alias Pearl Williams; Janet Williams, alias Danie Booth; Nellie Broadfoot, alias Nellie Booth; Jesse Dillard and Annie Lee Mathis.

TEN MANUFACTURERS DEMONSTRATE PLANES. Omaha, Neb., March 10.—(By the Associated Press).—Commercial aviation will advance another step March 11 when ten American airplane manufacturers will offer planes for inspection by the United States air mail service. The tests to be conducted at Hazelhurst Field, Long Island, and at the San Francisco air mail field, will be to determine the best type of machine for carrying mail.

After inspection at the two fields, the best machines will be flown by air mail pilots to the field at Monmouth, Ill. A so-called "laboratory test" then will be made of the best planes between Monmouth and Woodward field, Chicago, which will be known as the "special air mail development route."

Superintendent Carl Egge of the air mail service at Omaha expects the tests to result in the selection of a plane that will carry from three to four times as much mail and travel as fast or faster than the De Havilland type now used.

The air mail service, Mr. Egge announced, will place an order for fifty planes with the successful entrant in the contest.

ROTARY CLUB EELCTS FIVE NEW DIRECTORS. The Atlanta Rotary club Tuesday elected new officers and announced selection of five new directors.

The new directors are Bayne Gibson, R. L. Foreman, Sr., George A. Bland, Harold Wey and William B. Hoffman.

The officers, whose nomination was announced recently, are as follows: Robert Gregg, president; William C. Royer, first vice president; Francis E. Kamper, second vice president; Robert H. Scott, secretary; George S. Harris, treasurer, and James E. Mellett, sergeant at arms.

DETROIT RAILWAY CO. UNDER RECEIVERSHIP. Detroit, Mich., March 10.—The Detroit United railway, operating interurban and city lines in and between several Michigan cities, today was placed under receivership upon the petition of the Yellow Coach Manufacturing company, which was granted in federal court by Judge Charles C. Simmons.

Directors of the D. U. R., at a meeting yesterday, approved the receivership. In a statement to shareholders, announcing the receivership, directors of the company explained that a default in interest or dividend payments is contemplated.

THESE $35 Suits that we are selling so freely are exciting comment in the clothing trade.

A well-informed manufacturer examined them very critically a few days ago and said: "You are foolish to sell suits like these for $35 because they would bring $40 just as well."

He was probably right, but our price is $35, just the same—we have built our Business by giving more than people expect.

King Tut Loses His Claim As Oldest Royal Antique— Most Likely to a Princess

Tomb of Nebti-Seneferu
Unearthed Near Great
Pyramids By Harvard Museum Expedition.

BY CARL HUEER.
Boston, March 10.—King Tut-Ankh-Amen has lost his claim to fame as the oldest of royal antiques by more than 1,700 years, and official reports indicate he has lost it to be a princess.

Nebti-Seneferu, dead since 3000 B. C., rests in the tomb unearthed near the great pyramids at Giza, Egypt, by the Harvard-Boston Museum Expedition.

The famous archaeologist, who is professor of Egyptology at Harvard, is elated over the discovery made by his expedition and expects to leave for Giza at the end of the current school year.

"The find," he says, "can be considered one of the most noteworthy ever made. It carries archaeological history another step further back. It antedates King Tut-Ankh-Amen by about 1,700 years and comes from a period of which we know comparatively little."

Dr. Reisner believes the tomb to be of the fourth dynasty. It was found just off the line of a great causeway, leading from the tomb of Cheops, and her only important tomb yet discovered previous to Dynast VI.

"I am convinced," said Dr. Reisner, "that it is that of Cheops or Seneferu. In my opinion, Cheops was buried in his pyramid and Seneferu 15 miles south of the pyramid of Cheops. Their sarcophagi were never found, but their tombs were."

Sarcophagus of Alabaster.
"Inside the tomb just discovered was an alabaster sarcophagus, and on the coffin lay an elaborate woven gold mat with a line of incised hieroglyphs."

"The name given was that of Nebti-Seneferu, which seems to be the name of the person buried in the coffin. The name indicates that it was a woman, probably a princess."

"The posts of the sarcophagus are sheathed in gold, and the floor of the chamber is covered with vessels of bronze and alabaster and a quantity of gilded furniture which is in bad condition. Many objects are not identified."

Dr. Reisner said the work of clearing the tomb was proceeding satisfactorily. In order to prevent intrusion on the part of the public, Egyptian authorities have put a barred wire fence around the area in which the explorers are working.

ANOTHER TEMPLE FOUND IN BURIED CITY OF UR.
Philadelphia, March 10.—The monthly report of the joint expedition of the British Museum and the University of Pennsylvania, excavating at Ur of the Chaldees, received today makes known the finding of another temple in the buried city of Abraham in Babylonia.

The report of C. Leonard Woolley, head of the expedition, says the temple lies close to the Ziggurat, or tower of Ur, and inscriptions on bricks and stones proved it to be "that of Nin-Gal, the Great Lady, the Moon God of Ur." The building occupies the whole of the south corner of E-Temen-Ni, the terrace-enclosure of the Ziggurat.

"Most of the walls are of crude mud brick of miserably bad quality," the report said, "of a reddish-brown color and were standing at a height of about 10 feet. The walls were extraordinarily difficult to follow. My most experienced pickmen have found their way through mud and rubble and brickwork so soft that one can rub it to powder with one's fingers, but the floors are of brick, well laid and spread with bitumen, looking like modern asphalt, and with their help all the outlines of the chambers could be traced even where the walls enclosing them have altogether perished."

"The temple was built, in its present form, by Sinalatsu-Ikbi, an Assyrian governor of Ur, in 650 B. C., who always seems to have been short of cash for his building schemes and so to have employed the poorest materials. Fifty years later Nebuchadnezzar added, or repaired, the building, and later again his grandson, Nabonid, repaired the temple floors."

UPSHAW INDORSES
BORGULM DECISION
BY COIN BUYERS
Springfield, Mass., March 10.—Congressman William D. Uphaw, of Georgia, today sent the following telegram to Governor Clifford M. Walker, of Georgia, cordially endorsing Secretary of State S. G. McLehenny's letter to the executive committee of the Stone Mountain memorial coins to decide whether Gutzon Borglum or some other sculptor should complete the Confederate memorial on Stone Mountain. The telegram says in part: "Heartily glad to note your efforts to recognize the Stone Mountain memorial difficulty. Not only in Congress but among fair-minded people of the north I have found widespread feeling that Borglum's expressions of regret should be accepted and he be allowed to finish his long-harbored dream which had captured the heart of the nation. The marvelous spirit of national fellowship shown in the action of Congress in authorizing the Stone Mountain memorial coins should not be marred by bitter wrangling at home. I am still on the side of my people if division must continue but my deepest loyalty to them and the highest success of this international shrine impels me to reflect to the governor of my state the sentiment of the country as I find it."

MRS. STOKES GOES UPON STAND TODAY

Chicago, March 10.—The wife he is charged with conspiring to defame in an effort to further his divorce suit will take the witness stand tomorrow in the trial of W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire hotel owner of New York.

Her testimony, marking a departure under the Illinois statutes, which prohibits a spouse appearing for or against a mate, except under three explicit exceptions, will be severely circumscribed.

Mrs. Stokes, according to the decision late today of Judge W. N. Gammill, will be permitted to take the witness stand and enter formal denial of the testimony of two sleeping conductors, who said in 1922 she made overnight trips with men other than her husband.

Hal K. Billig, young Chicago real estate man, cousin of Mrs. Stokes and one of the numerous co-defendants named in Mrs. Stokes' New York divorce suit, denied from the witness stand late today that he ever had traveled with Mrs. Stokes.

Conductors Remember Billig. J. P. Burke, of Chicago, one of the conductors, had testified yesterday that Mrs. Stokes had introduced her overnight companion as Hal Billig, her cousin. E. V. Hanson, of Chicago, the other, testified today that from descriptions he thought he recognized Billig as the companion of another trip.

Billig also denied testimony of Mr. Stokes that he had been driven from the Stokes' New York home by the 23-year-old defendant on New Year's eve, 1919, the date of the Stokes' final separation, after Mrs. Stokes twice had appeared before him in disguise. He testified, however, that he had left the Stokes home after Mrs. Stokes had remarked to a nurse that it appeared conditions were such that he would "have to sit up all night."

Negro Denies Affidavits. Today brought the final direct evidence of the defense with the conclusion of testimony by Robert Lee, Chicago negro, on trial with Mrs. Stokes. The negro denied he sought to obtain affidavits for Mrs. Stokes, who once was an inmate of the Everleigh club.

His twice-written statement to an agent for Stokes that he had "brought" affidavits was a misspelling of "brought," Lee insisted. He said he "only went through the first reader" and "even college graduates make mistakes."

Leon Diggs, a negro, was the state's first rebuttal witness. He denied most of Mr. Stokes' testimony concerning him, and said that while he had made an affidavit for $250 concerning a "Helen," it was not the "Helen Ellwood" or "Helen Underwood" Mr. Stokes was interested in, but his wife, Helen Young.

PRESIDENT SUPPORTS OUSTING INSURGENTS
Washington, March 10.—President Coolidge fully supports the action of senate republicans in replacing insurgents in important committee places with regulars and considers that the question at issue is one of making it possible for his party to govern the country.

The whole question, as the president sees it, was whether congress was to be organized in such a fashion that the republican party could carry out its campaign pledges.

The chairmanship of the important committees and a majority on each one, he believes, should go automatically to members of the dominant party, and that there should be no objection to the exclusion of others from these responsibilities.

SIMONS DESIGNATED
ACTING PRESIDENT
Berlin, March 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—Dr. Walter Simons was definitely designated as acting president of the German republic by the passage in the reichstag this afternoon on its third reading of the bill so appointing him.

The reichstag also voted that the nation assume the costs of the burial of President Ebert. The sum involved is estimated at $10,000.

The democratic party has come forward with the suggestion that in the interests of unity and harmony, Dr. Walter Simons, former foreign minister, be the joint candidate of all the parties, excepting the right and left extremes, in the coming presidential election.

The democrats say they are willing to consider some other joint candidate who definitely supports the constitution of the republic and who is not identified with any party but trusted by all. The suggestion comes after the socialists, without consulting either of the other middle parties, decided to run Bruno Baer as their own candidate.

The nationalist newspapers such as the Kreuz-Zeitung, the Volkspost and Lokal Anzeiger do not welcome the suggestion, stating that while they have the highest regard for Dr. Simons, they do not intend to hide their embarrassment over the failure of the middle parties to agree upon a joint candidate.

Blister Causes Death of Woman At Winder Home

Winder, Ga., March 10.—(Special.) Mrs. Hattie Peavy Pitman, wife of J. T. Pitman, county farm agent for Barrow county, died at her home in Winder Saturday night.

Mrs. Pitman had been sick for about two months with an infection of a blister on her face. A poultice used in treatment for neuralgia caused the blister, which became infected. Mrs. Pitman before her marriage about 12 years ago, was a teacher in Atlanta, her home at that time.

Although living here for only about two years, she was one of the best-known and most loved women of Winder. She always took a great interest in the work of the Methodist church, of which she was a member.

Surviving Mrs. Pitman are her husband and four small children; her mother, Mrs. M. O. Peavy; two sisters, Mrs. J. W. Waters and Mrs. O. O. Etheridge, and two brothers, J. C. Peavy and Frank Peavy, all of Atlanta.

The funeral was held at the Methodist church and Rev. J. M. Dodd, pastor, officiated. Her body was carried to Atlanta Sunday afternoon for interment.

BOOZE LAW PENALTIES MAY BE STRENGTHENED
Washington, March 10.—Enactment of legislation by the next congress to provide heavier penalties for violators of the prohibition laws, was recommended today by a subcommittee of the house alcoholic liquors committee.

Mandatory imprisonment for offenders in the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors and larger fines for transportation and possession were among the recommendations in the subcommittee's report. Creation of a separate prohibition unit also was proposed, and it was suggested that the government be authorized to buy bonded liquor now in government warehouses, that "an adequate penalty" be imposed for the forging of withdrawal permits; that steps be taken to relieve federal courts from congestion due to liquor cases; that prohibition agents be placed upon a civil service basis; that larger appropriations be made for prohibition enforcement; and that cereal beverages manufacturers be required to take out permits, or pay a revenue tax.

The subcommittee, headed by Representative Hudson, Michigan, said the prohibition problem "is not as large as many sources antagonistic to prohibition would infer."

SOUTHERN SPINNERS WILL CUT OPERATIONS
Charlotte, N. C., March 10.—A resolution declaring for immediate curtailment of operations when orders are filled was adopted today by the Southern Yarn Spinners association.

The resolution urging regulation of operations in accordance with the terms of the new tariff, adopted after the association had received a report from one of its officers to the effect that the hand-to-mouth buying policy of consumers during recent years had placed upon the shipping industry the burden of carrying stocks of yarns and lint.

A. M. Fairley, Laurinburg, N. C., was elected president of the association, succeeding B. B. Gossett, Charlotte, resigned.

AMERICAN HOLDS BANK
27 TIMES; WINS $20,000
Cannes, France, March 10.—Louis Gimbel, of New York, has set the season's record for good fortune by holding the bank at Cannes 27 times in a single sitting. Gimbel thus won 400,000 francs, about $20,000.

A Greek millionaire, named Vaghi, who has caused sensations at Deauville and all along the Riviera by his plunging, lost nearly 250,000 francs while Gimbel was winning. A crowd stood around the table five deep, watching the fast, reckless play.

Officer Drowns When Army Plane Falls in Potomac

Newport News, Va., March 10.—Lieutenant McAlroy, reserve officer training at Langley field, is believed to have been drowned this morning when a plane in which he and Lieutenant Colonel Shaffer were flying fell into the Potomac river.

Colonel Shaffer made several futile attempts to rescue McAlroy then swam back to the plane and held on until picked up by an oyster boat.

Langley field, when advised of the accident, sent a squadron of planes up to the Potomac to locate McAlroy's body.

The plane was flying close to the surface of the river on account of fog when the engine went dead and the craft plunged before the flyers had a chance to leap.

GOEN IS GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE
Barnesville, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—A jury in Lamar superior court today returned a verdict of guilty against Kirby S. Goen, prominent farmer, charged with shooting his brother, Wiley Goen, to death in his field while at work in 1924.

The recommendation of mercy by the jury was approved by Judge G. Ogden Persons and a life sentence was given Goen.

Attorney Alton Faircloth represented the defendant and the defense was a plea of insanity. Solicitor Frank Williamson represented the prosecution.

The Goen family is prominent in the Chappel district in Lamar county and scores attended the trial.

On October 30, Wiley Goen was killed while plowing on his farm. It is said, without knowing the presence of the man who did the shooting. He died instantly.

It is claimed the brothers disagreed over the settlement of a $300 estate in which they both shared, and of which Wiley Goen was administrator.

Mrs. Willard C. Patterson, president of the Georgia Playmakers, and a woman of splendid address and charming personality, acted as toastmistress and presided at the dinner. Mrs. Clifford Walker, wife of the chief executive of the state, was also a guest upon this occasion and expressed great enthusiasm for the line of work which the Georgia Playmakers have dedicated themselves. She said: "The splendid purpose to which you have set yourselves commands the admiration of all true Georgians. It has my hearty commendations, and you will find me a most active supporter. I felt that something like this must surely come out of the soil of the Carolina Playmakers to Atlanta, and it is a source of keen satisfaction to find Georgians responding to the inspiration born of that occasion. Georgia is even richer in talent, richer in resources, has the background, the tradition, the history and the romance that must be the foundation of folk drama, and with the representative group of Georgians already allied with Georgia Playmakers, their active aid and organization will accomplish all that we of Georgia could hope for."

Dinner was served at 7 o'clock and the table was exquisitely decorated in baskets holding jonquils and daffodils, carrying out a color motif of white and gold. Silver candlesticks held unshaded yellow candles, and the place cards in gold and white.

Mrs. Patterson wore a French gown of black satin, trimmed with bands of gold and embroidered in American Beauty shade. Her hat was a model in American Beauty colored straw. Special honor guests of the dinner to Mr. Kennedy were Mrs. Charles Rann Kennedy, who as Edith Wynne Mathison, is a noted actress; Miss Martha Gage, who had important part in "The Chastening"; Mrs. Cora Harris, Georgia's great novelist; Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe university.

SLAMS AND CALAMS By Louise Dooly

(Extract from the Associated Press report on March 5, 1922, of the inaugural appearance and speech before the United States States senate of Helen Maria Blankety-Blank, first woman to be elected vice president.)

AS the hour approached for the arrival of the presiding officer of the most august assembly on earth, the senate chamber was filled to capacity. The senators themselves betrayed a tenseness not equalled since the days of the World War, while the members of the house, seated on the other side of the historic hall of assembly, attempted a show of indifference that would conceal their chagrin in that they had clung to out-worn tradition, and chosen for speaker a mere man.

The air was heavy with the perfume of flowers, which, with palms and streamers of red, white and blue tulle, made of the senate chamber a fit setting for an occasion so patriotically decorative, as it were.

In the press gallery representatives of every newspaper in the world and outlying territory sat, each with his individual wireless set, ready to broadcast to an impatient public the epoch-making moment when the vice presidency of the greatest government on earth or elsewhere should at last be dragged out of an undeserved obscurity, and the office assumed by one who would know how to put it on the map—a woman.

A fan fare of saxophones announced that the historic moment had come.

As the blattant notes faded into an echo, there floated upon the air a strain of music, sweet and solemn, the intimate love of an ensemble of harps in a festival symphony composed for the occasion by Professor Moroski (a naturalized American of the National Academy of Music, of which institution Mrs. Blankety-Blank was one of the instigators. She is a patron of the arts as well as of cooking, dressmaking, political

BEAUTY CHATS BY EDNA K. FORBES.

FOR AWKWARDNESS. About half the boys and girls between 14 and 18 years go through a period of shyness which, while it lasts, is an unhappy experience. Sometimes it lasts a long time, and has devastating effects upon their psychological problems which I cannot talk about today. I only want to talk about ordinary awkwardness that goes with growing up, the "pneumothorax" stage, as someone has called it.

I suppose I should address such a talk to mothers and fathers, for I believe they are responsible for this stage of social awkwardness. For if a girl or boy goes out among his friends feeling sure of his manner, his personality and social education, he'll not be ill at ease nor hesitate about making new friends. Nor will a girl. These things do not depend upon money, nor entirely upon school education, but on the contact with his parents and the sort of social life in his own home, which must be the first school.

But the grown boys and girls who are thrown on their own must work out their own solution. I think clothes count with girls, and that fans or pretty handbags to carry powder and make-up, and an evening dress, save many a girl from something to play with, something to do with her hands. After all, a boy can stuff his hands in his pockets, even if it isn't always the best of manners.

That "what shall I do with my hands" is the great plea, it is the greatest form of self-consciousness. Give the hands something to do and they are forgotten, as they should be. Make them pretty, and they are something else, a pleasant consciousness of, and an asset. A pretty dress will overcome a great deal of awkwardness with a girl; I suspect a well-fitting suit will do as much for the awkward young man.

We can give our whole attention to business only if we know that we do not have to hurry to our hotels or our homes when we leave here to dress for the next thing.

The vice president's tone now took a twinkle that had been called bellicosity, if she were not a perfect lady, as she enunciated with almost a hiss in this body in the past.

We are not going to have one woman lawmaker in a mauve afternoon gown upset the composure of this house; or one man in a corse waistcoat and spats destroy our discipline.

"The public shall be served. That is our job. Sport clothes it shall be hereafter."

And the vice president sank sinuously into her throne-like chair, and with her head poised with easy dignity against the high back, she looked under her long curling lashes to see how the audience took it.

THERE was for a moment a positively cringing silence, broken at last by a titter from the side of the chamber where the members of the house sat and plumed themselves that they could still go on wearing what the jolly well pleased.

Then there arose a deafening burst of cheers from the senators and senators in sports clothes, and an equal deafening silence from those in mauve chiffons or fancy waistcoats and spats, as the case might be.

AFTERWARDS various senators interviewed on the subject of the vice president's address, expressed an almost equal division of opinion. If there was any over-balance, it was of approval.

A typical expression was that of Senator Olga Svenson of Wisconsin, who declared that she thought it an excellent thing to get so momentous a matter settled in the first day. But she hoped the vice president would make it plain at once whether the radical group must wear their red flags all the time or just on holidays.

THE presidential review of the inaugural parade was called off, because there were not enough spectators to make it worth while. Male presidents have been inaugurated before.

EUFULA METHODISTS OPPOSE UNIFICATION

Eufaula, Ala., March 10.—That the members of the Methodist church of this city are strongly against unification with the northern Methodists was clearly shown on Sunday at the 1 o'clock service at the First Methodist church, when Rev. W. R. Bickstaff, pastor, asked the congregation to "take a vote on the matter."

Only one woman voted in favor of unification and stood up alone when the vote was taken, the rest of the large congregation remaining seated, signifying that the congregation is practically unanimously against unification.

Burned Evidence

By MRS. WILSON WOODROW

The story is being told by young Dandridge, junior member of a New York firm of lawyers. Old Jerome Fodick, one of the richest clients of the firm, invites Dan to lunch at his home. The young lawyer is interested in the old man's cruel daughter, Sara, a beautiful young woman, who is Fodick's sole heir. Fodick tells Dandridge that Sara's father, his only son, had spent many years in South America, where he died of malaria. He said that Sara was a beautiful woman, and that she had been married to a man named Herbert. Fodick said that he had been married to Sara's mother, the nurse said, had died soon after the baby's father. Fodick had investigated the woman's story and found it to be true. After Jerome Fodick's death, a famous psychoanalyst, called on Fodick and told him that he had been an intimate friend of Sara's mother in Buenos Aires when Sara was an infant, and that when she had had to leave the city on a financial tour she had left with Sara's mother all her jewels and a large sum of money. When she returned to Buenos Aires Fodick was dead and her property had disappeared. She had just succeeded in tracing them and she demands that Fodick return her jewels and the money with interest. A few days later the old man is found dead in his car. The one in the hands of Police Inspector Curran. Dandridge tells him about Madame Adelbron's demands and informs him that the medium had carried with her a list of jewels which had belonged to Sara's mother. Before Dandridge is able to give Fodick's safe—which contains important letters—opened, it is mysteriously broken and rifled. Curran goes to the Fodick house and finds that the letters are missing. The inspector questions Herbert, curator of the Fodick museum, and the old man's secretary, Miss O'Connor. Both have good alibis. Herbert claims he spent the hours between 6 and 11 at the house of Prof. Markham but admits he allowed a Prof. Quigley, known to him slightly, to remain in the museum alone during the afternoon. Adelbron, a famous criminal lawyer of New York, is Adelbron's attorney. He invites Dandridge to dinner at his apartment and there informs the younger lawyer that his client is about to sue Sara Fodick for the jewels and jewels she claims she left with Sara's mother. Graham Smith, a reporter who had covered the Fodick death for the paper, tells Dandridge that he saw Sara Fodick in a downtown restaurant the night of the robbery with a crook known as Lord Harry. He said that Sara will meet telephone to see that Herbert has been killed on the street between the Fodick home and his office. Miss O'Connor faints at the news, under the impression that the safe had already been opened. Lord Harry leaves the Fodick house wearing Dandridge's overcoat and hat. Dandridge is forced to wear Herbert's coat and hat left by Lord Harry. When he does them Sara exclaims at his resemblance to the dead curator, and succeeds that he try to deceive Achison.

INSTALLMENT XXXIII. THE WEAK LINK.

I pulled a chair up to the hearth and sat down beside Graham Smith. "If I let you in on something, Graham will you promise to keep it under your hat and not make any use of it until I say you can?" "The old, infernal confidence stuff," he groaned. "I never got on the track of a really good story but what somebody tries to slip the muzzle on me." His face smoothed out in a twinkling, then as he realized that he might have gone too far and shut off the confidence for which he was angling. "But don't mind me, old son. You know from childhood days that discretion is my second name. Go ahead, Tony, I'm a graveyard. Spill your story without fear."

"That's what I want of you," I said, "to help me make a story out of a mixed lot of suspicions and incidents."

"Shoo!" he said briefly.

I told him the whole thing, beginning with my meeting with Jerome Fodick and his granddaughter on New Year's eve at the Plaza, and ending with my recent encounter with Achison.

After I had finished he said nothing for at least five minutes, looking more than ever like a caricature of a statue of Buddha.

"What was it Achison said when he first saw you?" he asked at last. "I mean when he bawled you out as the supposed Herbert or Haworth? Try to remember his exact words."

"That's easy. I got them pat at the time. What he said was: 'This is of a piece with your general clumsiness, Haworth. Didn't I tell you never to come near me? You should have used some other channel if you have located the missing—' And then he recognized me and stopped."

"Picture puzzle for beginners. If it's all as easy as that, now listen, Tony. He held up one hand and checked off the points as he made them on his fingers. 'Achison spoke to that man (you) as Haworth, which shows that knowing his real name, he must also have known his criminal record. But, more important still, that 'Didn't I tell you never to come near me?' shows they had been in some sort of deal together. We're pretty sure that deal was theft on the letters and, since the safe was opened expertly, the bungling must have been in their delivery to Achison. The clue comes in the next sentence when he says something is missing. What? Why a part, an invaluable part, too, of the stolen correspondence. It looks to me as if, in the process of transmission, one or more of those letters was lost or mislaid."

"Ah!" I cried, "the weak link in the chain. Achison was paternally concerned over Miss Fodick's terrible position in case this claim against the estate should become public in the hope that he could frighten us into a compromise."

"Right," Smith agreed. "And he invited you to dinner to sound you out on that, and also to see if your side might possibly have picked up that missing something he wants so badly."

"I don't think he got anything out of me," I said, dubiously.

"Maybe he did and maybe he didn't," Smith spoke with his customary pessimism in regard to his friends. "Achison is pretty hard to fool. That line of yours tonight about looking through the curator's papers was rather clever, though. Still it never does to bank on having pulled any wool over that old devil's eyes."

He had another season of meditation and then woke up, and leaning over, tapped me on the knee.

"The atmosphere's getting clearer, and I can see a little more of the scenery, a few outstanding peaks," he said. "Tony, there are two lines of investigation to be followed. The object of one is to smash the blackmail plot, and leads direct to Achison. The purpose of the other is to catch the murderer of Jerome Fodick, this Haworth, for the same person attended to both of them; and the compass, as I study it, points straight to Adelbron."

"Every one knows that," I said. "She's behind it all, but who is shooting those poison darts? She has an unbreakable alibi."

"Now there, Tony," said Graham, with something approaching approval, "you have asked a really intelligent question. Who is shooting those poison darts? That's the joker in this pack that makes it really worth my consideration." Graham's conceit was so colossal that you couldn't laugh at it, you merely gaped with awe and respect. "Now," helping himself to another liberal dose of Scotch, "I have given you the two leads. Question is, which do you think the most important?"

Well, speaking as the lawyer for the Fodick estate, I should say the smashing of the blackmail scheme first. If we let these crooks establish any kind of a hold, there's no telling where they will stop. On the other hand, Miss Fodick, I know, is far more interested in finding the murderer of her grandfather, and her wishes go, of course."

"I'm with her—for once," Smith said, grudgingly. "For some reason he objected to Sara—'And,' slapping the arm of his chair, 'say what you will, Tony, there's a kick to a murder feature that you can't get in anything else; and this one, when I find out a few things and get ready to spring it, is going to put me right in the center of the biggest spotlight in town.' His bulbous eyes gazed fixedly at unseen headlines. 'Sherlock Holmes of the Press Unearths—' His voice trailed off and he was again lost in a brown study."

It was some time before he came to the surface, and then he got up and put on his hat and coat, casting an unpleasant glance at me.

"I've got some real thinking to do, and it can't be done here, with you poking the fire and kicking your feet against the fender."

It was grateful to him, and I had a feeling he was pretty sure to give us some valuable assistance. Luck had been with us this evening, at least, and I laid my tired head on the pillow with a prayer that it might not hasten its departure.

My faith, however must have been small, for I drew the heavy conclusion during a call of Prof. Markham's the next morning that unstable fortune had again turned its back on us.

When his name was brought into my office, I hoped he might be bringing some belated information that might be of value, and then it struck me that he must be in some difficulty which required legal adjustment, but it soon appeared that neither of these conjectures was correct, or so it seemed for a time.

"Really," he said, after he had shaken hands and sat down, "I do not know when Mrs. Markham and I have been so shocked. I called up the Fodick museum quite incidentally and was informed abruptly that Mr. Herbert had passed away suddenly last night. You can imagine how Mrs. Markham and I felt. We had no idea, you see, that he was other than in robust health. Why, it was only a short time ago that he dined with us. A delightful companion, Mr. Dandridge: a connoisseur of rare and varied attainments."

"He was indeed," I said fervently.

"Yes, a great loss," the professor sighed. "My telephone call was most ill timed. I do hope Miss Fodick—it was her secretary who gave me the information—will understand. I was ignorant of the facts. As pointed as I was by the news, I may not have made myself clear on that point. Indeed, Mrs. Markham said afterward that she feared that I had not expressed myself entirely felicitously."

So that was the purpose of his visit to me. He was afraid that his telephoning might be regarded as intrusive or lacking in propriety, and he wanted me to present his apologies.

"O, Miss Fodick will think nothing of that," I assured him, "but if you wish, I will explain the matter to her."

"Thank you, I shall be much gratified if you will."

REGULARS WIN FIRST CRACKER PRACTICE GAME

Red Smith Knocks Double
And Four Singles; Niehoff
Plans Exhibition With Reds

BY JULIAN GRIFFIN.

Winter Park, Fla., March 10.—(Special)—Red Smith, commonly known to baseball fans of Atlanta as "Red," is still able to back that old apple. He led the Southern league in hitting last year and is the only man who ever knocked one out of the lot at Winter Park. Not being satisfied with that, he went to the last five times this afternoon in the Regular-Yanigans game and connected for a double and four singles, for a batting percentage of exactly 1.000, according to our way of figuring.

The Regulars trounced the Yanigans in a six-inning game, 17 to 8. There is no particular reason for dubbing one side the Regulars and the other the Yanigans. As a matter of fact, Niehoff, himself, was pilot of the Yanigans, and Wilbur Good was appointed boss of the so-called Regulars. Players of high calibre were on the lineup of both teams and the score indicates that the manager was generous in appointing efficient men to Good's side. The aggregations lined up like this:

Niehoff's team: Hall, 3b; Leach, ss; Scarritt, cf; Niehoff, 2b; Courtney, 1b; Clarke, rf; McLaughlin, cf; Hammond, c; Shepherd, Kinnere, c; Slappeg, P. Pigrass, none out of 1.

Good's team: Zoellers, rf; Krehmeyer, ss; Gazella, 2b; Good, rf; Smith, 3b; Murphy, 1b; Elmore, cf; Gones, c; Slappeg, Pigrass, and Newberry, pitcher for this side.

Contest Slugged. Niehoff gave orders to the half dozen hurlers used not to put too much stuff on the ball and consequently the contest developed into a regular slugfest. The Regulars getting 20 hits and the Yanigans 12. Smith's perfect day at bat made an average like .500 or .750 look small, but Red Murphy did not allow his late arrival to affect his batting eye. The first sacker got a double and three singles out of five tries up.

In dealing out these figures we must be frank and say the game slipped up on us and came without a scorebook in camp, so we will have to list them about like you would in a basketball game, but they should give you an idea of the way the fellows worked with the stick. We shall endeavor to round up a scorebook tomorrow and send back the first Cracker box score of the season. The hits scored were as follows:

Hall, 2 out of 4; Leach, 2 out of 2; Scarritt, 3 out of 4; Niehoff, none out of 3; Courtney, 2 out of 3;

Clarke, none out of 3; McLaughlin, 1 out of 2; Hammond, 1 out of 3; Shepherd, none out of 1; Kinnere, 1 out of 1; Zoellers, 1 out of 3; Krehmeyer, 3 out of 3; Gazella, 3 out of 5; Good, 2 out of 4; Smith, 5 out of 5; Murphy, 4 out of 5; Elmore, 1 out of 4; Gones, 1 out of 2; Slappeg, none out of 2; Pigrass, none out of 1.

The 25 runs of the afternoon were scored by Zoellers, Gazella, 2; Good, Smith, 4; Murphy, 3; Gones, 2; Slappeg, Leach, 2; Hall, 2; Krehmeyer, 2; Kinnere, McLaughlin, Hammond, Courtney.

Regulars Get Fast Start. Good's team got away to a good start, the first six men up connecting for safe hits and scoring. The extra base knocks were made as follows: Doubles, Hall, Scarritt, Kinnere, Krehmeyer, 2; Smith, Murphy, Elmore, triple, Leach.

The work for the entire day started at 10:30 in the morning, with pepper games, running, hitting and fielding occupying the time until noon. The players remained at the park and sandwiches were served on the field. The game was played after a brief rest and the players got back to the hotel at 3:30 o'clock after five hours on the field.

The men who were seeing service for the first time today, Zoellers, Krehmeyer, McLaughlin, Murphy and Clarke, seemed none the worse for their delay. Some of them had been playing winter ball in Florida and the others were also in good shape as the result of hunting, basketball or other forms of winter exercise.

Niehoff announced this morning that the Cincinnati Reds will come over here from Orlando Saturday afternoon for a game with the Crackers. This will be the first exhibition game of the training season, and the wicked bluejean welders on Niehoff's team are liable to make the Cincinnati fly chasers step out. The game should be an interesting affair.

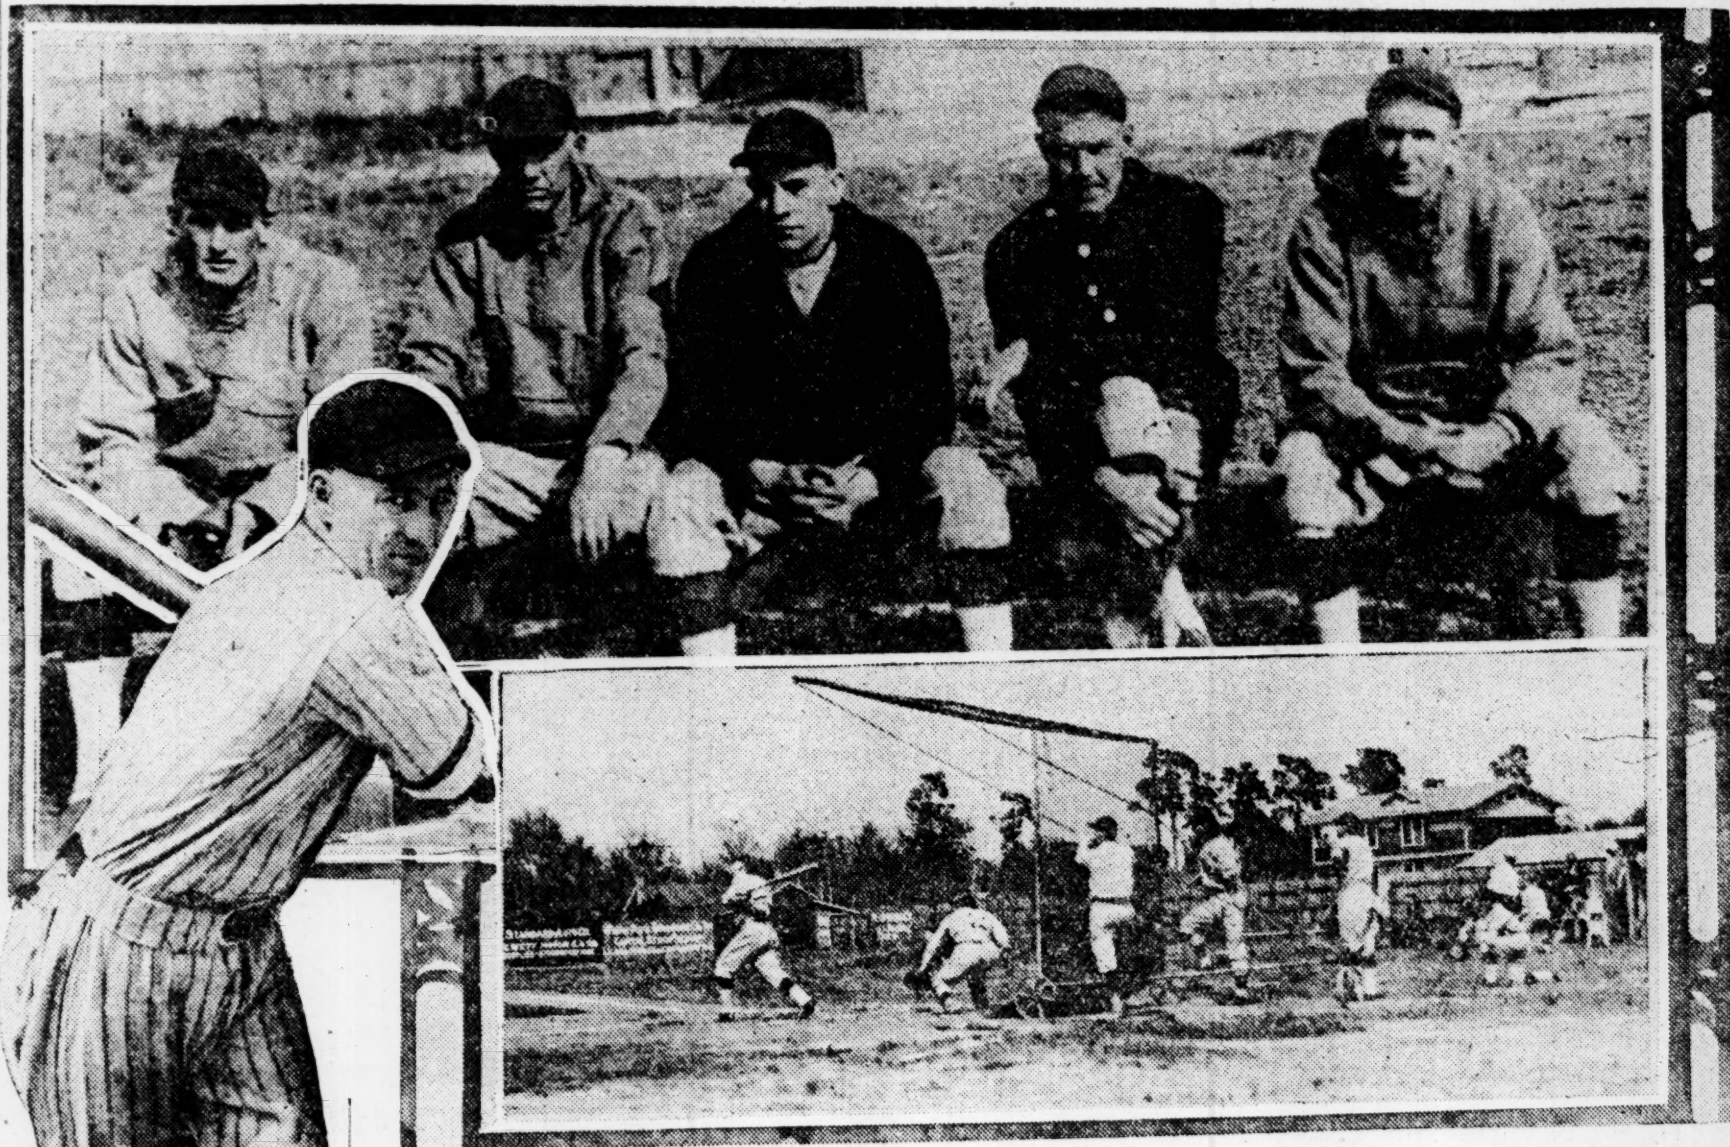

At breakfast today a man asked us if Steady Thompson was a pugilist. We glanced over and saw that he had an ugly black eye where a wild ball caught him.

Movies Made of Players. The work allotted for tomorrow is the same as that of today, according to the skipper. The players and even the scribes are taking a triple and a frying size coat of sunburn. A few more weeks under the sweltering Florida sun and the boys will be ready for the big bout.

Atlanta fans will see the Crackers in the movies before they see them in person. James Buchanan, of Atlanta, representative of the Pathe

G. M. A., PETREL
RATS PLAY
TIE GAME

BY GORDON KEITH.

G. M. A. and Ogletheorpe freshmen played seven innings to a 3-3 tie Tuesday afternoon out in College Park, the game being called because of darkness. Both teams used several extra men, and two pitchers worked for both clubs. Considering the early date, all the men showed up well and a tight, interesting game resulted from the meeting of the two teams.

The battle was about even throughout, although the freshmen started strong and played great ball for the first three innings. One run was made in each of the first two frames, and the visitors were leading 2-0 at the last of the third. Several substitutions were made here, however, and the cadets coupled timely hitting with a miscue or two the count. No further scoring was done until the sixth, when the home team batted in another run and took a 3-2 lead. Ogletheorpe came back in the next inning and tied the score again at 3 all, and the battle was called after another half-inning.

The freshmen garnered 6 hits off the two cadet twirlers, Weatherley and Ragsdale, and the home club managed to connect with five safeties from the offerings of the visiting moundsmen, York and Mann. Ogletheorpe only made two errors, while the cadets made four miscues. Pike led the cadet hitters with his two singles, and O'Neill, Parker and Weatherley got one each. Edmondson connected for two singles, and Weatherley and York for a single apiece for the freshmen's stick work.

Weatherley, veteran cadet pitcher, worked six innings, letting in two runs and striking out three men. Ragsdale pitched the last four frames and fared a great deal better, permitting only one run and fanning five, three in one inning. York threw them across for four innings for the freshmen, letting in two runs and striking out four men. Mann worked the last three and struck out two.

Miller Withdraws Request
To Stage Flowers-Gans Bout

Inklings that the business of legalized slapping of faces with the padded knuckles would get under way again here about the last of March blew up in thick black smoke yesterday afternoon at the special session of the city boxing commission. Walk Miller, the only promoter who has shown symptoms of wanting to stage a battle here, withdrew at the meeting his application to match Tige Flowers, his negro middleweight, with Aletown Joe Gans, who did everything except enter the most against "the Beagle."

"I'll not have time to get things in shape for the fight on March 31," Miller said at first in his request that he be permitted to withdraw his application. That was before the commission turned down his subsequent request for a blanket permit for the Business Men's Athletic club to stage weekly bouts at $150 top prize during the rest of the year.

Afterwards Miller waxed eloquent over his prospects of matching the Tiger and this Gans guy—in some other city. Then he blamed the withdrawal of his application partly on what he declared was an unfair action by the commission. The thing that rankled in Miller's mind was that the commission had a rule to issue annual passes. Miller, just before the commission went into executive session on his other application, entered a protest against "the commission exceeding its authority in issuing annual passes."

Promoter Pays, Says Miller. "I won't promote a Flowers-Gans fight or any other kind of fuss here with no limit on the number of passes the commission can issue," Miller said. "The promoter should be the one to issue the passes for the fellow who's paying the bills."

So the Flowers-Gans battle is off, as is Atlanta's boxing boom. Miller said that he can get guarantees for Flowers' services against this Aletown matter in any one of five cities that will be larger than the amount Flowers could get from a capacity house in Atlanta.

Matters looked good at first for Miller's application for the blanket permit for weekly shows at his club on Decatur street. It provided that all bouts should be under rule of the commission and that cards should be submitted to the commissioners three days before the date of each fight.

"What I want to do in these shows is to encourage the boys who are taking up boxing as their profession," Miller explained to the commission. "The main thing is to give them the opportunity to show so they can work up to main-bout material. It's the only way boxers can be developed and it's the only way I can put the shows on, for getting a permit for each card would be too much trouble with me in New York."

Trammel Scott led the opposition to this proposal with the contention that granting such a permit to one individual would be similar action on all other requests of a similar nature. He also declared to the commission there was too much danger of poor matches with the granting of such a permit.

Then Miller entered his protest to the pass and of the commission's working and departed while the commission went into executive session. When the commissioners came out of conference, Chairman Walter Tripp said that the vote was unanimous against granting Miller the blanket permit. It was learned later, however, that while there were no dissenting votes, two commissioners did not vote on the matter.

After the meeting Miller said that he would lay plans at once to close the Business Men's Athletic club on Decatur street, but that it would be two months before he gives up possession of the quarters the club occupies.

GIANTS BEAT SENATORS, 8-7

Palm Beach, Fla., March 10.—The Senators and Giants resumed hostilities Tuesday at the point where they left off in that delicious twilight moment in Washington, last fall. They played a nine-inning ball game in a palm-bordered yard at Palm Beach with a full quorum of millionaires bestrode in graceful attitudes of boredom in the stands.

The Giants won 8 to 7, but it was a very loose ball game, in which seven pitchers tried their arms. Ross Young, the Giants' outfielder, delivered a hit in the eighth inning which gave the Giants the victory. A notable home run was not out of the game by Clarence Rowland, the umpire, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, for protesting a decision.

Sixteen hitters were given bases on balls and three men walked after being hit.

The score: R. H. E. Washington 200 021 020-7 12 0
Giants 000 500 038-8 11 1
Batteries: Zachary, Russell, Marberry and Hargrave, Tate; Nehf, Wiener, Greenfield, Maun and Hartley, Devine.

N. Y. COMMISH
BARS MILLER
AND TIGER

New York, March 10.—Walk Miller, manager of Tiger Flowers, Atlanta negro middleweight, today was suspended indefinitely, together with his entire stable of boxers, including Johnson, Johnson and Herman Pillette. These two, together with Bert Cole, face dismissal, Cobb has said. Cobb has not yet reported for training, but is expected some time this week.

Of the three, Johnson is giving Cobb the most concern. The Detroit club paid $40,000 to get him and Pillette from the Pacific Coast league, where he was a star hurler. He is 25 years old and has shown flashes of big league pitching. For that reason Cobb may be slow in asking waivers on him.

Most of the fighting was done in the club with Strickling and Miller, unmercifully on the Louisville boy's midriff. Neither was in bad shape at any time.

Strickling trained down within the lightweight limits for this fight, though he is now a legitimate heavyweight. He scaled 174 pounds, while Fay weighed in at 167 pounds.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 10.—With the arrival of Carl Mays at the Orlando training camp, the Cincinnati Reds have an even dozen pitchers in line. Dibat and Luque being the only absentees. It is understood that Dibat is having trouble getting passports and it is rumored also that Luque has been ill for two weeks.

Lew Fonseca, Jimmy Caveney and Elmer Smith arrived in camp late yesterday, giving Manager Mays two complete infielders and one more outfielder than needed to stage the daily vet-contests he has mapped out for his athletes.

Blackburg, Va., March 10.—Construction was begun today on the world war memorial gymnasium of Virginia Polytechnic institute, the building to cost $250,000. It is expected that it will be completed by January 1, 1926. The institution has been without an athletic home since the field house was destroyed by fire two years ago. The memorial feature of the gymnasium will be the lobby in which will be placed the names of Virginia Tech men who served in the world war.

WILDE NAMED TO CAPTAIN TECH FIVE

George Wilde, forward for two years on Tech basketball teams, was elected by the lettermen last night, to lead Tech's 1925 quintet. The election of captain and alternate for 1925 was held at a dinner at the Biltmore hotel.

Douglas Wycoff, captain-elect of the 1925 football team, was named as alternate of the "26 floor squad." In addition to being elected captain, Wilde was awarded a silver loving cup for having the highest average for fouls made during the season. His percentage was 532.

George Rosser was awarded a cup for being the best all-around basketball player on the squad.

The only talk of the dinner was given by Coach Hansen, basketball coach and football backfield coach.

TWO BILLION FOURSOME OFF

New York, March 10.—Wall street learned today of the failure of plans for a two billion dollar foursome on the golf links at Jekyll Island, Georgia.

J. P. Morgan, George F. Baker, Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City bank and Alvin W. Kuech, chairman of the Equitable Trust company were involved in the plans for the match. Efforts were made last week to bring together the four who represent institutions with assets well above two billion dollars.

The proposal failed through the opposition of Mr. Kuech, who is skeptical regarding the merits of golf as a pastime. The other three are enthusiastic about it.

MARSHALL GOES UNDER KNIFE

Johnny Marshall, who saw considerable service last fall at end on the Georgia Tech football team, yesterday was operated on by Dr. LeRoy Childs for removal of his appendix.

Marshall was taken suddenly ill and after a hasty examination Dr. Childs ordered him taken to St. Joseph's hospital for an immediate operation.

Marshall was reported last night as resting as easily as could be expected.

Club Risking
Spotless
Record

Tonight at 8:30 o'clock the Jewish Progressive club and the Atlanta Y. M. C. A. fives will meet on the city auditorium court in the climax of Atlanta's basketball season.

These two teams have been outstanding in basketball circles of the city during the past campaign and a battle between the two might be classed as a championship game.

The Jewish Progressive club has gone through the season undefeated in 15 starts and the Y. M. C. A. likewise has a great record with only two defeats to mar it. One of these defeats came at the hands of the Cincinnati Y, one of the greatest teams in America, and the other was in Demorest against the Piedmont college lads on a hillside court.

Repeated efforts have been made during the past two years to bring these two teams together. A game was scheduled for last year but it fell through because of no agreeable referee, according to one of the teams. Again this year the game was scheduled but was postponed.

Both teams held a hard practice Monday night and also a light practice was held last night in final preparation. Reports from South Pryor street and surroundings have it that the Jewish Progressive supporters will be there in full force while the Y. M. C. A. supporters have held several short spirited meetings in preparation.

The lineups for the game will be: J. P. C. Y. M. C. A. Spillberger Perry Finkelstein Wilkinson Dorman L. Rosenberg Buford Selgel Bynum

The referee will be Ervin, coach of the Birmingham Athletic club, and one of the officials in the S. C. tourney.

TIGER HURLERS MAY GET AX

Detroit, Mich., March 10.—The axe is poised threateningly over the heads of Detroit Tiger twirlers as the second week of training at Augusta, Ga., slipped by. The two, whom Manager Ty Cobb says will have to show up better during the succeeding five weeks than they have for the three years they have worn the Tiger uniform, are Sylvester Johnson and Herman Pillette. These two, together with Bert Cole, face dismissal, Cobb has said. Cobb has not yet reported for training, but is expected some time this week.

Of the three, Johnson is giving Cobb the most concern. The Detroit club paid $40,000 to get him and Pillette from the Pacific Coast league, where he was a star hurler. He is 25 years old and has shown flashes of big league pitching. For that reason Cobb may be slow in asking waivers on him.

VANDERBILT FENCE UNIQUE; WHAT WAS LEFT WAS SUNK.

The famous Vanderbilt mansion in Fifth avenue at West 58th street is different from the newer sort of town house in that it has an elaborate iron fence around the front garden.

When this heavy "art" fence was being put up, it was decided to leave out two or three sections.

Commodore Vanderbilt was very proud of the fence. He had had it designed and built at great expense. It was determined that the extra sections should never be used by anyone else.

So he hired a sea-going tug, had the fence pulled down and the sections were sunk in the Long Island Sound.

The town house of the New York society is not so exalted as the fine city homes of Europe. Of course it is not so large, and it is not so grand as the great mansions of the old world.

On February 19, a short time after his talk with the secret service, Brown wrote to Mrs. Coolidge, telling her of the agents' demands. This letter was turned over to the secret service in Washington.

"These people only want you to stop annoying the president and his wife," Magistrate McDonald said Tuesday.

"But I don't see why I should be questioned for writing persons I am personally acquainted with," Brown replied. The rabbi promised, however, that he would write no more letters in the immediate future.

Brown said that he had helped elect Cleveland, and Roosevelt as well as Coolidge, and that he was a personal friend of Harry New. He said he was a pallbearer at the funeral of General U. S. Grant.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

The famous Vanderbilt mansion in Fifth avenue at West 58th street is different from the newer sort of town house in that it has an elaborate iron fence around the front garden.

When this heavy "art" fence was being put up, it was decided to leave out two or three sections. Commodore Vanderbilt was very proud of the fence. He had had it designed and built at great expense.

So he hired a sea-going tug, had the fence pulled down and the sections were sunk in the Long Island Sound. What is society with a big S? What do I do? And how? Why? When? In this series of articles the author tells from her intimate observation just those things that we all want to know about the upper ten.

CHAPTER II—THE TOWN HOUSE

The town house of the New York society is not so exalted as the fine city homes of Europe. Of course it is not so large, and it is not so grand as the great mansions of the old world. On February 19, a short time after his talk with the secret service, Brown wrote to Mrs. Coolidge, telling her of the agents' demands.

This letter was turned over to the secret service in Washington. "These people only want you to stop annoying the president and his wife," Magistrate McDonald said Tuesday. "But I don't see why I should be questioned for writing persons I am personally acquainted with," Brown replied.

The rabbi promised, however, that he would write no more letters in the immediate future. Brown said that he had helped elect Cleveland, and Roosevelt as well as Coolidge, and that he was a personal friend of Harry New. He said he was a pallbearer at the funeral of General U. S. Grant.
